Tariff and Wages
How Short a Platform
The Power of Song
Who Was Wrong? No Matter

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

GOVERNOR SMITH is said by his friends to oppose any free trade plank in the Democratic platform.

Governor of a state with 6,000,000 inhabitants in one city, the governor knows the connection between high tariff and high wages.

And he knows that an ounce of fact is worth many tons of theory—even the theory inaccurate.

MRS. BLAIR, Democratic vice chairman, demands a platform "so short that people will read it."

That is impossible, if she means ALL the people. You could not write a platform in one column.

Ye eighty in a hundred wil not finish a column.

THE Democrats might write, "WE promise to do our best," and then stop. That would be read and applauded. But such satisfying brevity is not in nature.

BIRDS sang, small mammals squeaked melodiously, and men, probably, resorted to attract their ladies before there was any speech. Therefore song, deeply planted in the brain, is more powerful than prose, and at Roanoke, Va., the political boss, fearing a local nominee to Smith, told the band it must not play "The Sidewalks of New York."

WHY the words, "Me and Mamie O'Rourke, we tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York," should stampede a convention is not clear. But they might. "Yankee Doodle" has words even sillier. Think how that song stirs men when lifes last.

GERMANS thresh over the war question, "Who was guilty?" The side that LOSES is guilty always. Had the Germans won, which was impossible with their Kaiser, they would not bother discussing guilt. History would make it unnecessary.

THE French, stabilizing their franc at 25.52 to the dollar, realize that it does not much matter who is right or wrong or who wins, as regards real results.

The man that owned $100 in French bonds before the war now owns $20. Every owner of pre-war French bonds has seen eighty cents cut from each dollar. And that, after WINNING the war.

WAR does not pay, right or wrong, winner or loser. Another war would destroy our civilization, such as it is.

If men of power got those facts fixed in their minds war would stop. The would-be war maker would be treated like a mad dog, as he should be. Meanwhile, we should keep prepared, for you never can tell.

LLOYD GEORGE says that youth, disillusioned by the war, turns from religion and the church.

Youth has done that often, old age occasionally. But youth and age return to religion. Illusion or faith, whichever you call it, is a necessity to 999 in 1,000.

Men ask themselves difficult questions and worry when there is no answer. Faith answers everything.

VOLTAIRE'S saying, "If there had been no God, it would have been necessary to invent one," describes human beings.

You may dissect the atom and the atom's electrons and nuclei. You may show how a dozen radio-active transformations produce lead from other elements.

Still men will ask, "Who made the atoms and the big sun? How did it all start? What keeps it going and whence did it come?

THE roulette wheel goes around at Monte Carlo. The ivory ball spins, finally settling into its place—red, black, odd even pass or manque, or zero.

And so men, spun by an invisible hand, fall into their places in this life.

SOON politicians will be solemnly addressing thousands of young "first voters." The young voters will listen, not hearing, and drop into the Republican or Democratic column, in accordance with environment and teaching. How many in a thousand will vote knowing WHY?

BUS DRIVER KILLED WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO TREE

Toledo, June 25—One person is dead today and seven others, two of them in an Adrian, Mich., hospital, were recovering from injuries sustained when a passenger motor bus crashed into a tree at Underwood's Corners, near Adrian, last night according to word from the Michigan city.

Wallace Van Zile, 32, of Toledo, driver of the bus, lost his life in the crash.

Smith Forces Reported Agreed on Tentative Prohibition Plank

PLEDGES ENFORCEMENT

Democratic Platform To Be "Short and Snappy," It Is Reported

BY KENNETH CLARK
Star Staff Correspondent

Houston, Texas, June 25—The Al Smith forces have agreed upon a tentative prohibition plank which seeks to harmonize the differences between the militant drys and wets, it was learned today.

The gist of the plank follows:

Denounces the Republican party for failure to enforce properly the Eighteenth Amendment.

Blames the Republicans for a virtual reign of terrorism in enforcement methods.

Pledges the Democratic party and its nominees to enforce rigidly all provisions of the constitution.

In this outline of the plank no mention is made specifically of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. The Smith leaders argue that it is not at all necessary as naturally any presidential nominee would pledge himself to enforce all laws on the statute books even should he favor modification or repeal of some particular provision.

Not Embarrassing

Such a plank, the Smith leaders declared today, would not embarrass Governor Smith and should suit all the drys except that militant group which is seeking an out and out endorsement of the "moral uprightedusness" of prohibition.

Members of the Smith camp have been burning the midnight oil in trying to evolve some plan to soothe the omnipresent prohibition row. The latest arrivals in the New York delegation, some of whom have recently talked to Governor Smith, brought out the suggested plank.

As a gesture to the wets, some of the New York leaders close to Governor Smith are planning to make a fight for liberalization of the Volstead Act. I'

Figures Show New York Governor Will Have Minimum of 750 on Second Check

FOUR STILL FIGHTING

Reed, Moody, George and Roper Left to Carry on Fight

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

Houston, Tex., June 25—The desperately struggling anti-Smith leaders in the Democratic national convention conducted a new count of noses today, 24 hours before the gavel falls, and then gave up all hope of stopping the New York governor.

A number of conferences was followed by a morning of figuring, and in no direction could the bitter-enders find any hope of holding off Governor Smith's nomination beyond the third ballot. He may even go over on the first ballot, although his managers do not claim it nor particularly desire it.

The cold figures, checked and rechecked by the weary and dejected opponents of Smith, showed that unless the day of political miracles is past, Governor Smith will have a minimum of 750 votes on the second ballot. His possible maximum is considerably greater because in that figure of 750 there Smith had been accorded only 42 votes from the so-called solid south, the Arkansas and Louisiana delegations and four from North Carolina.

May Get Extra Votes

As the great mass of delegates poured into Houston today by train, boat and motor there were rumblings that indicated Smith may get a good many scattering votes from southern states that his managers have regarded as unfriendly territory.

Six of Virginia's 24 votes, for example, were reported ready to go to Smith on the first ballot, or whenever the governor's managers want them called in. Eighteen of Indiana's 30 were said to be ready to go for Smith as soon as released by Evans Woollen, the Hoosier's favorite son.

The road seemed to be opening up for a band wagon movement that

Maryland Governor Asserts Madison Square Garden Fight Will Not Be Repeated in Houston; Moody Boomed as "Boy Orator;" Sidelights of Convention

BY GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE
(Governor of the Maryland Free State, who retired from the Democratic presidential race to support Al Smith.)

HOUSTON, Tex., June 25—I think Gov. Alfred E. Smith will be nominated by the Democratic convention on the second, if not the first, ballot, and that he will be elected president of the United States next November.

Governor Smith will be nominated because party success depends upon party unity and Governor Smith is the man who offers far and away the best chance for unity.

The Democratic party is not going to have another Madison Square Garden. We do not want any dissension that can be properly avoided. Governor Smith gives the best assurance of victory and that is what this convention wants.

Friends of Tom Moody of Texas are grooming him for the successor of William Jennings Bryan.

Gliding him under the sobriquet of "the boy orator of the Brazos," as Bryan was offered at about the same age to the Chicago convention in '96 as "the boy orator of the Platte," Moody's friends have placed upon his young and eager shoulders the whole cross of the Anti-Saloon League's

MANY MOURN DEATH OF HOLBROOK BLINN

Noted Actor Dies From Injuries Received in Fall from Horse

New York, June 25—The death of Holbrook Blinn, noted actor, was mourned today by thousands of theatergoers and a host of his stage and motion picture associates. The veteran Thespian, cheerful to the end, had been confident of recovering from injuries which caused his death, and his friends had expected to see him in another production this fall.

Blinn died last night at his country home at Croton-on-Hudson from injuries sustained when he was thrown from his horse while riding near his home on June 16. An infection of the arm set in and caused poor blood circulation. A blood transfusion failed to save him.

Blinn's wife was at his bedside. Funeral arrangements were to be announced today. Born in San Francisco in 1872, Blinn made his debut as a child. After appearing in productions on the coast, he came to New York in 1888. He spent several years in London.

Blinn's last New York appearance was in "The Play's the Thing." Previously he acted in motion pictures and directed a few productions.

HOPPE EXPECTED TO MAKE INSANITY PLEA

State Prosecutor Seeking Electric Chair for Alleged Child Slayer

Toledo, June 25—With Lucas County Prosecutor Leroy W. Hunt striving for a first degree murder conviction, the trial of Stanley Charles Hoppe, 26-year-old Toledo taxi-driver, alleged self-confessed slayer of Dorothy Sielagowski, was to get under way in common pleas court here this morning with Judge Charles Milroy presiding. All indications pointed to an insanity defense in an effort to save the accused man from the electric chair.

Seventy-four prospective jurors, 32 women and 42 men, compose the venire from which the jury is expected to be selected. The defense, according to law is entitled to 16 peremptory challenges and the state four. Selection of the jury was expected to take three or four days.

Arrayed against the state will be a battery of defense counsel, flanked by alienists who will take the stand and offer testimony on behalf of the accused man in their capacity as "expert witnesses." Counsel for the defense is composed of Larry Bevan, Eldon Young and Leonard Raab. Alienists thus far announced by the defense are Dr. H. H. McClellan, Toledo, and Dr. L. A. Querner, Dayton, former superintendent of the Dayton State Hospital. Another alienist as yet unnamed, is expected to bolster Hoppe's case.

"FAVORITE SONS"

Two Parades Staged at Houston by Ohio, Indiana

HOUSTON, Tex., June 25—Two "favorite son" parades—Ohio for Atlee Pomerene and Indiana for Evans Woollen—were staged as the delegations rolled into Houston on special trains today.

With the Ohio delegation was Newton D. Baker, ex-secretary of war and frequently mentioned as a presidential candidate.

Indiana brought along William H. Settle, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, and 10 farm relief boosters.

Sentiment of both Ohio and Indiana delegations indicate a strong shift to Gov. Al Smith if the "favorite sons" release them.

GEORGIA DELEGATION BACKS FAVORITE SON

"We Believe in Harmony, Too," Is Spirit of Latest Arrival

Houston, Tex., June 25—The "George for president" special arrived today bringing 75 enthusiastic delegates, alternates and "just friends" of the cause.

"We believe in harmony, too," but "George first, last and all the time," epitomized the spirit of the delegation.

It was Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, who added the harmony note to National Committeeman John S. Cohn's declaration that the delegation stood firmly behind Senator Walter F. George for president.

Senator William J. Harris, Georgia's other representative in the upper house of Congress, headed the delegation and G. E. D. Maddox, of Rome, Ga., came along as vice chairman.

The train was on time and the Georgians were whisked away to their headquarters at the Sam Houston hotel.

FOURTEEN DEAD FROM TRAFFIC OVER WEEK-END

Auto Death Toll Is Highest Since Early Spring Days

THREE IN THIS DISTRICT

Two Lose Lives, Four Seriously Hurt and Seven Others Injured in Cleveland

Despite the unsettled weather conditions about the state generally over the week-end, traffic tolls for this period were the highest since the early days of spring. Fourteen deaths were reported.

Kenton: Perle Johnson, 50, and Fred Fittro, 42, of Mt. Victory, were electrocuted when an auto broke off a pole of a power line.

Cincinnati: Helen Conklin, five, and Anna May Stevens, 10, were killed when struck by automobiles. Agnes Kimball, 10, was probably fatally injured in the accident which caused the death of the Stevens girl.

Toledo: Louise Clay, 25, East Lansing, Mich., was killed in a collision between two automobiles.

Robert Groman, 67, is dead from injuries received when an automobile in which he was riding, plunged down an embankment.

F. E. Ramsby, 39, died from injuries received in an automobile accident last Wednesday.

Columbus: Louis Klingbell, 28, died of injuries received in an auto accident six months ago.

Cincinnati: Carl Axtmann, 48, died of injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding left the road and struck a telephone pole.

John Graham, 78, was killed when hit by an automobile in the street in front of his home.

Columbus: H. E. Carver, 26, died from loss of blood following an automobile accident near Reynoldsburg, 10.

Cleveland: John Belak, 35, and Frank Gorce, Jr., were killed, four persons critically injured and seven others seriously injured, in three traffic crashes in this vicinity yesterday and last night, police reported. Belak and the Gorce child both of Cleveland, were killed when the car in which they were riding with a man and a woman went into a ditch beside Main Market rd, Geauga County.

Galion: Mrs. Raymond L. Baker, 38, was instantly killed when an auto driven by her husband was sideswiped by a passing car.

MAN IS GIVEN FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE

Patrick Simmons Ordered Not to Drive Auto For One Year

Arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning for the second time on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, Patrick Simmons, 346 Chestnut-st, was fined $200 and costs, sentenced to the county jail for 30 days and was deprived of his right to drive an automobile for one year, when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Simmons, arrested on North Main-st at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and locked up at police headquarters for a hearing today, paid a fine of $100 and costs and was deprived of his right to drive an automobile for six months, when he pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated before Municipal Judge Martin last September.

He was taken to the county jail this afternoon to start serving the 30 days.

"PEACHES" HURT

Accident Near Mansfield Sends Miss Browning to Hospital

MANSFIELD, June 25—Frances "Peaches" Browning, injured in an automobile accident here yesterday, will be confined to a hospital here for several days, according to hospital authorities today.

Edgar Allen, manager of "Peaches" activities who was driving the car swerved to avoid a collision with another machine, went into a ditch. The car overturned throwing the occupants out. Mrs. C. Heenan, mother of Miss Browning suffered slight injuries. Allen received two fractured ribs. Peaches suffered a deep gash below her right knee.

NOBILE SAVED WHEN AVIATOR REACHES HIM

EXPLORER INJURED

Suffering From Crushed Leg; Airman Lands on Moving Block of Ice

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 25—Saved from a lingering death in the grim, white waste of the Arctic by an heroic air rescue which will go down in history as one of the most masterly achievements of aviation, General Umberto Nobile and a member of the Italia's crew believed to be Troiani, an engineer, were aboard the Citta Di Milano today under the care of the ship's surgeon.

Both Nobile and Troiani are believed to be seriously injured. The engineer was injured when the Italia crashed to the ice on the morning of May 25. Nobile is suffering from a crushed leg. Just how he sustained his injuries has not been revealed.

The marooned men were rescued by the Swedish aviator, Captain Tornberg, flying the tri-motored Junkers plane upland.

Puts Skies On Plane

Spurred on by urgent requests from Nobile that the ice was cracking up under his crew, Tornberg equipped his plane with skies and headed for the encampment of the castaways.

He landed on a moving block of ice, took Nobile and the engineer aboard and flew to the steamer Quest, hovering off Hinlopen Straits. The injured men were given first aid treatment aboard the Quest before another plane took them to the Citta Di Milano, which is in the vicinity of Dane's Island.

Tornberg then made another flight to the Nobile encampment to rescue the other four stranded members of the Italia's crew, but his plane overturned in attempting to make the difficult landing.

Details Lacking

It was reported that he escaped uninjured, but details of his second attempt did not reveal whether or not he was able to right his plane and take off again for the Quest.

Meanwhile other rescue planes continued to scour the wastes for signs of Captain Amundsen and his party and the 10 missing members of the Italia's crew. Amundsen, accompanied by Major Rene Guilbaud and three others, left Tromsoe, Norway, in a French plane almost a week ago and has not been heard from since.

Of the 10 missing members of the Italia's crew, three, the Italian navy commander, Mari and Pontano, and the Swedish professor, Malmgren, left Nobile's group almost a month ago in an effort to walk over the ice for aid. The other eleven were stranded with the group of the Italia when the dirigible crashed.

FOUR [illegible] ATTEMPTING TO RESCUE VICTIM

G. Pearl Johnson, Kenton, and Fred Fittro, Mt. Victory, Are Killed

CAR BREAKS POLE

Occupants of Wrecked Machine Escape in Crash Near Mt. Victory

A high tension wire carrying a voltage of 6,600 which had fallen when an automobile crashed into the pole, caused the deaths of G. Pearl Johnson, 50, of northeast of Kenton, and Fred Fittro, 42, Mt. Victory, Sunday afternoon, a half-mile south of Mt. Victory, on the West Mansfield and Mt. Victory pike.

Johnson was killed instantly and Fittro lived a few hours after being removed to McKitrick Hospital, Kenton, in the F. M. Latimore ambulance, Mt. Victory. He died at 9:30 o'clock last night after employes of the Ohio Power Co. worked over him for more than three hours in an effort to restore life. Included in the list of workers were W. T. Augur, manager of the power company's office at Kenton, Dick Collins, Everett Cole, Ralph Sharp, Willard Kinsey and Elmo Rager, and Dr. Moench, of Kenton, and his son, from Mt. Victory.

Willis Wilson, farmer residing near the scene of the accident and his son, Clifford, 25, who accompanied Mr. Johnson, are suffering from shock sustained in trying to loosen the stricken man from the wires, and A. F. Kounts and Robert Fittro, seven-year-old son of Fred Fittro, of Mt. Victory, are suffering from burns sustained when Mr. Fittro was electrocuted.

Mr. Kounts was badly burned across the shoulders and back when the body of Mr. Fittro came in contact with him in falling, and sparks from the body caused burns on the boy's face.

Vern Detwiler, of Bucyrus, and James Bonham, of Sybelia, who were riding in the car figuring in the accident, escaped injury. The car, a new Ford roadster, owned and driven by Detwiler, overturned in the ditch and struck the power pole breaking it off. The machine was damaged. The accident happened when Detwiler lost control of the machine.

Took Hold of Wires

Mr. Johnson was electrocuted when he took hold of the wires. The current entered the right hand burning it badly and came out through his right foot. Mr. Wilson was severely shocked when he attempted to free Mr. Johnson and both men were pulled clear of the wire by Mr. Wilson's son. Mrs. Johnson and two daughters, Nancy and Roberta, were visiting at the Wilson home at the time of the accident. Mr. Johnson was at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Williams, Mt. Victory, where the family had spent the day.

Mr. Fittro visited the scene of the accident about two hours after the death of Mr. Johnson. The electricity "jumped" from the wire to the body of Mr. Fittro, who according to witnesses was at no time nearer than five or six inches to it. His right hand was

With three of four recreation ball leagues in Marion having completed first round play last week, there is a noticeable tightening up of the leaders as the pennant race enters the home stretch.

To date there is but one team in the four loops that has yet to taste defeat. Six straight victories have been chalked up by the Eagles in the Commercial League with two games to be played before the first round closes.

In none of the leagues has the championship fight developed into a walk away. Leadership in two of the loops runs between two teams while first place nines in other leagues lead by a very small margin.

Hard To Name Winners

With one exception, it would be difficult to pick out winners who will play in the little world series later in the summer. That exception is the Eagle nine in the Commercial League. Although being trailed by the Steam Shovel A. A. with only one defeat, the Eagles have one of the strongest teams in Marion and are expected to win easily.

Calvary, Marion champions last year, have recovered its series form after getting off to a bad start in opening games. They are now tied with Christians No. 1 for first place in Sunday School League No. 1. Each team has lost but one game.

Saints in Slump

St. Mary's, after winning three straight games in this league, dropped into a slump losing two in a row and are now tied for second place with Wesley and Epworth Seniors.

In the other Sunday School League, Epworth Juniors are traveling at a fast pace holding the lead. Until last week, Epworth was tied with United Brethren for first place but managed to play while other teams were kept idle by rain. These two aggregations are probably the strongest in the league but Lee Street and Lutheran are expected to give them a fast race before the season ends.

Industrial Race Close

Industrial League teams are staging a hard fight for the championship. Osgood and C., D. & M. are tied for first place, each having lost one game. In second place the Hocking Valley and Shovel Club are even with two games lost. At the start of the season Hocking Valley looked like certain winners but failed to keep up the fast pace.

Although favored at the start by good weather, conditions during the last three weeks have not been so good and postponed games are piling up to be played off at the end of the season. Every effort is being made to work these contests in on open dates through the week.

Tonight's games in Sunday School League No. 2 are: Lee Street vs. Forest Lawn at Central; Presbyterian No. 2 vs. Epworth Juniors at Lincoln; Christians No. 2 vs. Reformed at Silk Mills; Lutheran vs. United Brethren at Fairfield.

ELKS ARE DEFEATED IN FINAL GAME FOR MARION TITLE, 14-4

Local Team Will Take on Galion Wednseday Night

Having decisively settled the amateur baseball championship in Marion, the Dodgers today are preparing for the opening of the sub-district American Legion tourney Wednesday.

After defeating the Elks in the final local contest 14 to 4, the Marion champions will journey to Galion for the initial contest. Saturday at Lincoln Park the local team will play Carey in its second and final game. On July 5 at Galion, Carey will meet the champs of that city.

It was plenty easy for the Dodger sluggers to smash the offerings of two Elk pitchers. The first innings netted the champs four runs as did the third. Three runs were scored in the eighth.

Members of the winning team will receive medals presented by the local American Legion post, sponors of the tournament in Marion. The Dodgers will play under the banner of the local post in the subdistrict contests.

In case Marion pulls through the sub-district affair, it will be sent to the district finals at Toledo. Winners of this tourney will be entered in the regional meet.

Members of the winning team are: Adams, Fields, McAninch, Eccnlayer, Poehler, Copeland, Schott, Pfeiffer and Miley

Robert Owens Defeats Grissinger at Marion Country Club

ROBERT OWENS, 15-year-old son of C. A. Owens of Marion, won the handicap tournament of the Marion Country Club yesterday by defeating J. L. Grissinger two up. Owens played with a handicap of 12 while Grissinger a 28 handicap.

Young Owens reached the finals by defeating J. R. Smith, four up and three to play. H. R. Stoll lost to Grissinger six up and four to play.

The second inter-club match will be played at Bucyrus next Wednesday. Members of the Shawnee Country Club of Lima will be seen on the Marion Course Sunday.

OUTDOOR FIGHT ON EAGLE SPORT CARD

Large Crowd Expected to Attend 28-Round Show Tonight

Showers forecast by the weatherman are not expected to cut down the attendance at the 28-round boxing show of the Marion Eagles Lodge at Crystal Lake Park tonight.

The first bout will get under way at 8:15 when Harold Williams of Marion and Kid Simpkins of Mt. Vernon clash in a preliminary bout. Ray Ganshaw of Newark and Mike Kelley of Cleveland meetin the second six-round preliminary.

Ray Snyder, Marion, is slated to go eight rounds with Al Hines of Columbus in the eight-round semi-final. Both fighters are to weigh around 145 pounds.

Martin Mazzio, sparring partner of Johnny Risko of Cleveland, will meet Lou Janita of Columbus in the main go. These boys fight at 126 pounds and are scheduled to box eight rounds. Mazzio has quite a reputation as a knockout artist so the fight may end suddenly at any time.

Jones Loses Play-off

Johnny Farrell Is National Open Champion After Brilliant Play; Bobby Tied in Last Two Rounds

JOHNNY FARRELL

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

CHICAGO, June 25—The perennial runner-up; Johnny Farrell, of Quaker Edge, won the National Championship yesterday in a 36-hole play-off with the remarkable Bobby Jones.

Farrel fought his way to ultimate success against the greatest golfer of all ages, winning by one stroke, with medal rounds of 70 and 73 for a total of 143 against Jones' cards of 73 and 71 for 144. Their 72-hole journey in the regular championship concluded on Saturday, ended in a dead heat in 294 strokes, with the greatest field ever assembled trailing in their wake—Hagen, the British champion; Compston and Boomer, the greatest abroad, and the field of American professionals.

Farrel virtually was considered out of the competition when he took a 77 on the first round. But gameness had its reward when, on the final day everyone blew except Farrell and his rounds of 71 and 72 earned him his chance yesterday.

Johnny was shaky when he started in the play-off. And he felt almost no better when Jones gained a stroke with a birdie at the first hole. But Johnny kept trying, and Jones was not quite the precise automaton of other rounds and other years.

He announced later that he was starting in the mid-American championship in Kansas City today.

CARDINALS HOLD SIX GAME LEAD IN RACE FOR NATIONAL FLAG

St. Louis Wins Six of Nine Starts; Giants Second

New York, June 25—With a six game lead over the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs, who are tied for second place, the St. Louis Cardinals are threatening to make a runaway race of it in the National League scramble, just as the Yankees are doing in the American League. The Cards have won six of their last nine starts, while the Cubs and Giants were unable to break even last week.

The Pirates have copped four of their last six games, but Ray Kremer, one of their star boxmen was knocked out by the Cubs yesterday. The Phillies, who have won 10 of their last 13 and Brooklyn, with five wins in seven starts, are due to cause the Giants considerable embarrassment.

Yanks Win Three

The Yankees won only three games last week, but the Athletics haven't gained an inch on them in the last eight days.

High lights of yesterday's games were:

Babe Ruth smacked his twenty-eighth homer and is 17 games ahead of his last year's record.

No Boston player reached third when George Pipgras of the Yanks blanked the Red Sox, 4 to 0, and no Giant got as far as the hot corner as Jess Petty of Brooklyn whitewashed New York, 2 to 0. Pipgras allowed only three hits, two of which came with two out in the ninth, and hung up his thirteenth victory.

Alex Beats Cincy

Grover Alexander of the Cardinals beat Cincinnati for the third time within eight days.

George Grant, Cleveland pitcher, won his sixth straight victory.

Detroit blanked the White Sox, 6 to 0 and took seventh place away from them.

Hack Wilson of the Cubs hit his fourteenth homer.

BACON SMASHES HOMER IN FIFTH

Eagles Touch Visiting Hurler for 13 Hits; Rain In Last Three Innings Slows Up Contest; Colored Nine Next Sunday

BY KARL E. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Making 13 hits good for 20 bases and five runs, the Marion Eagles baseball club romped home to a 5 to 4 victory over Barker Bros. nine of Akron in a hectic session in Lincoln Park Sunday afternoon.

Rain, which started falling in the last of the fifth inning, although causing the bleacher customers to seek shelter in the grand-stand failed to halt the contest. The last three frames were played in a constant drizzle that slowed down the field and made the ball difficult to handle.

Heavy Hitting

Hitting of Bacon and Wysong featured the contest, each getting three Eagles out of four trips to the plate. Bacon managed to get a home run by bouncing the pill over center field fence.

Two of four Eagle errors allowed the Akron club to score a like number of runs. Bacon allowed Emerson to land safe on first in the fifth inning and Turk immediately knocked him in with a three bagger. In the ninth Rizor made a bad peg to first let Emerson land safely to be scored on Stauffer's double.

Marion opened the game by making three hits good for two runs. Rowan, first up, fanned and Price singled over second. Pine flied out and Sharrock drove Price in on a triple. Bacon's single scored Sharrock.

One, Two, Three

Akron went out one, two and three in the first frame and neither team scored in the next two. Three consecutive hits and one error gave the Eagles another score in the fourth with Rizor scoring.

An error, a three bagger and a pass ball gave the Akron club their first score in the fifth inning. Emerson made first on Bacon's error at second and Turk tripled to center. A pass ball allowed the visiting hurler to score. Bacon's homer gave Marion another run in the last of the fifth.

Both teams scored one apiece in the sixth. A sacrifice hit gave Schmaltz a run after leading off with a triple. Wysong made his third hit and first run of the game in this frame. He scored on Rowan's fly to center.

Neither team scored in the next two

IN the new Brightwood addition third house from Mt. Vernon, I am building a new 7 room English colonial model home all large rooms throughout. Basement has three apartments, laundry, fruit and furnace rooms, reception hall with cloak closet, large living room, dining room, kitchen and kitchenet, toilet on first and second floor, four large bedrooms with spacious closets to each room, finished attic. This home is up to the minute in every way with built in features, steam heating system, electric refrigeration, double garage, shrubbery planted. If interested come and see this home and I will finish it to your liking. Don't forget this is only a 10 minute walk to the court house and where schools are close and the best. I supervise the building and it must be first class in every way.

Market Shows Extreme Dullness With Narrow Price Changes

EIGHT PER CENT CALL LOAN RATE EXPECTED

Powerful Group Formed to Support Bancitaly Stock

MOTORS MOVE UP

Professionals Inclined to Await End of Democratic Convention

By W. R. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

New York, June 25—Extreme dullness with narrow price changes characterized the stock market today. With the condition of the money market over the next few weeks highly uncertain, liquidation of weak, marginal stocks at an end, further reduction in brokers loans expected, and professionals inclined to await the conclusion of the Democratic convention. The market in the forenoon drifted to a lower level of prices, some of the best known stocks making excellent support at the low levels.

Forecasts of an eight percent call loan market before the turn of the month were freely offered in the financial district due to the necessity of hustling of enormous supply of cash in the banks for the July interest and dividend disbursements.

Wall Street heard that a powerful group has been formed to support Bancitaly stock and no further weakness was anticipated from that angle. The motor stocks, specialties after dropping back to a lower price level, recorded their best rise and moved upward a point or two.

Transactions in the first three hours are totaled only seven hundred thousand shares less than the recorded total of the previous first hours in the April and May drive.

TODAY'S REVIEW GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 25—All the grain markets appear to have changed from a bearish position into one that is distinctly bullish.

Assuming that this analysis of the action of the markets on Saturday is correct, there will, of course, be many setbacks on the way up; but if it is correct the trader will do well to confine his selling to profit-taking on bulges and avoid short selling, for a time at least.

The markets gave a demonstration on Saturday that was impressive in the highest degree. The whole attitude toward prices at the opening was bearish. A lower cable from Liverpool emphasized that attitude on wheat.

Bearish statistics of the most pronounced kind on the Canadian wheat situation and on the yield of Winter wheat in our Southwest were as thick as figures in a counting house. One might have supposed that wheat would break at least 3 cents.

The attitude on corn was practically the same. Bears were estimating the new crop possibilities at as high as 4,000,000,000 bu. The strong cash situation and the rapid disappearance of old corn were ignored.

The markets opened off, but not as much as expected. In the first few minutes of trading all the futures of wheat and corn hit the bottoms for the session. Trade turned dull and prices stood still.

The heavy selling that had been expected did not appear. That meant that bears were already short all the grain they cared to sell. There was no pronounced buying.

After an hour of dragging prices it became apparent that the markets would not break, no matter what bears thought they ought to do. Wet weather in the Southwest where harvest ought to be under way and further North where it should begin this week, was threatening damage and delayed harvesting.

Shorts See the Light

Shorts begin to see the light and to try to get in. Only the most alert sensed at first the change in the markets. They covered. And that little buying was enough to give the markets strength that was growing right up to the close and is not unlikely to go on growing today.

Any weakness in either wheat or corn at the start this morning will probably be taken advantage of by prospective buyers who have been holding off for several days waiting to see if the market would turn.

It seems to me not unlikely that today's session may provide a very sharp advance in prices.

The bulls in corn appear to be in the saddle again. The bull deal in the July future may make that extremely tight and carry it to a big premium over the other futures.

Low Grade Corn Hedged

In July is probably hedged a good deal of low grade corn not deliverable on contracts. If this is the case it will have to be bought in the pit. The big longs in July now look as if they are in the position they have hoped to get into. They need only sit tight—from their point of view—and demand delivery.

That the other futures will follow July up if that advance seems certain. The fine prospects for the new crop cannot offset now an oversold condition in September and December corn which will become for a time more acute on every advance.

We are entering the normal period for buying corn, and although the new crop outlook is magnificent, the month of July will probably furnish reports of damage from corn borers and other insects. The new crop is a long way from being made yet, and shifting weather conditions will be reflected by increased activity in the pits.

Cash, because of the wet weather, and the short supplies and [illegible] position and [illegible] prices will [illegible]

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Markets were quiet today with dealers restocking with fresh supplies after unusual heavy buying Saturday. Prices were quoted unchanged from last week. Strawberries were not plentiful today, a few were coming in that were selling readily at 18 and 20 cents. This week's growth will be the peak of the crop, growers say, but just what change in the prices will take place this week, dealers have refused to state. Blackberries and dewberries were plentiful today and the former were selling at 30 cents and the latter at 45.

Watermelons were selling from 60 to 80 cents and dealers report an increase in the demand. Halves were selling at from 35 to 40 cents. Pineapples for canning were not so plentiful, the price, however, is holding at from $1.25 to $2.50 a dozen. Cantaloupes continue plentiful, large supplies were being carried by dealers today that were selling at 10 and 15 cents.

New potatoes are holding at 30 to 40 cents a peck. Good quality potatoes were selling today at 30 cents. New cabbage continues to sell at five cents a pound, the quality is good and dealers report heavy sales. Asparagus is growing more scarce, dealers were carrying a small supply today that was selling at 10 cents a bunch. Yellow wax and green beans were holding at 18 cents and peas at 15. Several dealers Saturday were selling peas at 10 cents a pound.

Leaf lettuce was being quoted at 15 cents today and spinach at two pounds for 15 cents. Head lettuce was only fairly plentiful and was selling at 10 and 15 cents. Egg plant continues to supply a limited demand at 20 and 25 cents.

TWO WARMED OVER DISHES ON PROGRAM

Godfrey-Rieke Argument Set for Wednesday at Ebbets Field

New York, June 25—Two warmed over dishes grace the local bill of boxing fare this week, with a hastily concocted and synthetically treated portion of Tommy Loughran and Armand Emanuel added to the menu in the dessert spot.

Tomorrow evening, at the Queensboro Stadium, weather permitting Napoleon Jack Dorsel and Pierre Charles, the Belgian block, will meet in their deferred bout.

On Wednesday evening, the elements consenting, George Godfrey and Johnny Risko will make their third attempt to quarrel publicly at Ebbets Field. Everything we said, repeated, revamped and reconstructed about this affair still goes.

There will be no postponement of the Loughran Emanuel debate on account of wet grounds for it is to be held in Madison Square Garden on Thursday evening between laps of the dance derby.

Loughran is the light heavyweight champion, but he is not defending his title on this occasion. Although he will be at the class weight—175 pounds. His manager, Joe Smith, is averse to Tommy taking on a contender of Emanuel's reputed class on short notice, so the California barrister has agreed to weigh more than 175. That dispels his title threat.

BAKER WINNER

Coon Chase Held In Delaware County; 200 Dogs Entered

I. B. Baker, Norwich, whose dog "Little Shick" won the national coon chase at Kenton last fall, won the Delaware County meet yesterday with "Jim." Dr. Brandbury of Mt. Vernon won the second grand championship.

"Dad" Stetzer's dog "Landy" won the tree and pot races. He is from Marion.

More than 200 dogs were entered and $280 in prize money was distributed among the winners.

MANAGER RIDICULES DRYS' VOTE CLAIMS

Says Governor Smith Will Get 650 Backers on First Ballot

Houston, Tex., June 25—Claims by the drys that they have more than enough votes to block Gov. Al Smith's nomination today were characterized by George R Van Namee, the governor's pre-convention manager, as "ridiculously exaggerated."

"There is nothing that can stop Governor Smith's nomination," Van Namee said. "He will have more than 650 votes on the first ballot. But how many more I do not care to say at this time."

While he has steadily insisted that Governor Smith would be nominated on an early ballot, Van Namee today indicated he believed that victory may come for the New York executive on the first ballot.

Sees Undivided Support

"If Governor Smith is nominated on the first ballot, I feel certain that all who are now opposing him will give him their undivided support, Van Namee declared.

Fred W. Johnson, of Wyoming, who was in charge of the Al Smith special from nine western states, predicted the nomination of the New York governor on the first ballot.

"I don't see how they can stop Smith's nomination on the first ballot," Johnson said.

Things To Hum

With the arrival today of New York's delegation, things will begin to hum at the Smith headquarters. The New Yorkers will caucus tonight with the election of Mrs Carolina O'Day, of Rye, Westchester County, as chairman of the delegation. Mrs O'Day is vice chairman of the state committee. She acted as delegation chairman at Madison Square Garden four years ago.

Leaders of the Smith forces are not expected to reach a final decision as to who will represent the delegation on the resolutions committee until just before the caucus. It had been expected that either United States Senator Robert F. Wagner or John W. Davis might be named to this post, but it was said today that a switch might be made at the last minute.

Major James J. Walker of New York, who is due here today, is not expected to represent the Empire state delegation on any committee but probably will act as one of the Smith floor managers.

Accompanied by several members of her family, Mrs. Smith, wife of the New York governor, is scheduled to reach Houston late today.

FINED $500

C. E. Glassmier Pleads Guilty To Liquor Charge

Police emerged from a place on the West Side of Marion Saturday night, after making a search for liquor, just in time to discover an automobile driving up in front with a gallon jug of liquor on a seat. The car, together with the driver and the liquor were taken to police headquarters where the driver was booked as C. E. Glassmier, 38, of 170 Pennsylvania av. He was later released under $2,000 bond for his appearance in court this morning.

When arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning, Glassmier pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $500 and costs. He is being held at police headquarters pending payment of the fine.

LUNCHEON WILL BE FEATURE OF OPENING

State Republican Convention to Start in Columbus Thursday

A luncheon to be staged under the auspices of the Ohio Council of Republican Women is to be one of the opening features of the Republican state convention, according to word received today by B. J. Shelton, chairman of the Marion county central committee.

The luncheon is to be held at the Neil House in Columbus at 12 o'clock Thursday, the opening day of the convention. Speakers will be Republican candidates for United States Senate and governor of Ohio.

Reservations for the luncheon must be made with Mrs. Mary W. Teter, 165 East State st, Columbus, not later than Wednesday.

Headquarters for the Republican state convention which is to be held at Memorial Hall, Columbus, Thursday and Friday of this week, will be established at room 228, Deshler-Wallick hotel. Delegates will receive their official badges and programs showing the meeting places of the district caucuses at headquarters.

Official notification of the convention has been sent to all county central committee chairmen by Fred W. Warner, Marion attorney. Nomination of candidates for presidential electors and drafting of a state party platform will be the chief duties of the convention.

Negro Quartet Slated

ORCHESTRA TO OFFER NUMBERS

on Tuesday's Program

Arthur Porter's Southern Four, a quartet of negro voices, will be heard on the Eveready Hour program to be broadcast at 8 o'clock, Tuesday night over the National Broadcasting System.

An orchestra, under the direction of Nat Shilkret, will offer three numbers by Rudolph Friml followed by a group of refrains to demonstrate whether verses are of any use to Tin Pan Alley. The orchestra will also play the overture to the motion picture "Abie's Irish Rose" in which the Jewish and Irish tunes are interwoven.

Selections by the negro quartet include both popular ballads and character songs.

Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire" will be played by the Slumber Music string sextet as the opening number of the program to be broadcast at 10 o'clock through the NBC System.

Other numbers will be Haydn's "Oxen Minuet," Tschaikowsky's "Lake of Swans", a scene from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite and the barcarolle from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman."

"The Downfall of Peter the Valiant" is the title of the Sooncyland Sketch over the National Broadcasting System at 6:30 o'clock.

Adapted from Washington Irving's Knickerbocker History, the sketch portrays in a whimsical manner the overthrow of Peter Stuyvesant by a vacillating group of councillors.

Keith McLeod, vibraphone soloist, Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, and a group of four male voices will present a program including old favorites during the Stromberg-Carlson period to be heard at 7 o'clock.

Boom Senator Robinson for Vice Presidential Nomination

REED'S NAME ALSO MENTIONED AS MATE

Leaders Fear Smith and Missouri Senator Would Be "Too Wet"

LARGE FIELD IN RACE

Arkansas Leader Acceptable to New York Governor, It Is Claimed

Houston, Texas, June 25—A fast-growing and ever-growing vice presidential boom for Senator Joseph T. Robinson, minority leader of the United States Senate, today overshadowed the spirited race for second place for honors on the Democratic presidential ticket.

Although a dozen prominent and nationally known Democrats were in the vice presidential picture, the Robinson boom appeared to be the best organized and the most widely-promoted. It was being quietly whispered in the hotel lobbies that Roolnson had the personal endorsement of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, and that if Smith won the presidential nomination, Robinson would be his running mate. Friends of the Arkansas senator openly predicted his nomination on the first vice presidential ballot.

In the inner council chambers, however, another name was whispered—that of Senator James A. Reed, now a vigorous candidate for the highest honor. Some influential party leaders said Reed could have the vice presidential nomination by merely signifying his willingness to run with Smith, should the New York governor become the presidential nominee.

Large Field in Race

There were a good many dissenters, including some of Smith's closest friends, to a Smith and Reed ticket. It was protested that such a ticket would be too wet and would fail to recognize the following of Woodrow Wilson.

There was a large field of active candidates, however, in the race for the running mate honors. Of these, the names of Representative Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, Evans Woollen of Indiana, Gov. Vic Donahey of Ohio, former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, were the most frequently mentioned.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, George L. Berry of Tennessee, Louis G. Stevenson of Illinois, son of the late Adlai Stevenson, running mate for Grover Cleveland, and Representative W. A. Ayres of Kansas, were boosted by active followers. So, too, were William J. Bulow of South Dakota, former Governor Ashton W. Shallenberger of Nebraska, Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Houston Thompson of Colorado, Representative W. W. Hastings of Oklahoma, former Senator James Hamilton Lewis and Supreme Court Judge Floyd E. Thompson, both of Illinois.

And Mrs. Ross

One woman was in the picture, too—former Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming. The campaign for Mrs. Ross was being waged on the ground that she was a successful political leader and that it was time for the Democratic party to blaze the way by recognizing women on the presidential ticket.

Boom Significant

The Robinson boom really was significant. According to a reliable authority, it was said, Robinson was acceptable not only to Governor Smith himself, but to such outstanding Democratic leaders and Smith supporters as John W. Davis, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, George W. Brennan and to George W. Olvany, head of Tammany Hall. It actually appeared that if Smith won the presidential nomination, the whole Smith organization would be thrown to Robinson.

There were two thorns in the Robinson "bed of roses." First, his candidacy was based entirely on Smith winning the presidential nomination, and, second on the complete elimination of "Jim" Reed. Robinson headquarters could see no alarm in the situation, however, as Senator T. H. Caraway, the Arkansas junior, predicted Robinson's selection.

FORD BLAZES

City Apparatus Called to Fire Near Lumber Yards

Apparatus from all of the city fire stations were called out Saturday afternoon when a Ford touring car belonging to C. E. Gibson, R. F. D. No. 5, was discovered to be on fire on N. Oak-st near the plant of the Marion Lumber Co. Gibson had stopped his car to await the passing of an Erie freight train and leaving the engine running, he went into the lumber company plant to transact some business. When he returned a few minutes later he found smoke pouring from the hood of his car. Stepping to a fire alarm box in front of the office of the lumber company, he sent in an alarm. Because of the nearness to the lumber yards, the three city departments responded to the call. The blaze was put out with chemicals.

Five Tattered Volumes of McGuffey Readers are Prize Possessions of Marionite Who Studied Them Years Ago

FIVE tattered little volumes—tattered in the sense that they wreak with age, are the most prized possessions of N. E. Arnold, 382 S. Main-st. Despite the fact that they are only five, very small, very old, very undignified little volumes—they mean more to Mr. Arnold than all his library of some 1,200 books.

Unlike their fellows those five little volumes have a history—an interesting career which, in each case, began about a century ago when some small tot started to country school with a new and cherished little book bearing the title "McGuffey's Reader," tucked under his arm.

With only one other book do those five McGuffey readers share their popularity and that is an even smaller, even more worn little volume called "Sam Franklin's Savings Bank." It came into Mr. Arnold's possession when he was nine years of age, as the Christmas gift of his mother and the foundation of one of the most complete and valuable libraries to be found in Marion. "It taught me economy and thrift," Mr. Arnold said of his little book.

Never Equalled

"The morality, high tone and splendour of contents of the McGuffey readers has never been equaled by any textbook writer down to the present day," Mr. Arnold says. "William McGuffey's teaching through the avenue of textbooks is almost beyond understanding."

Several of the group of first, second, third, fourth and fifth grade readers were studied by Mr. Arnold as a boy and had been the property of his father, the late C. A. M. Arnold of Pomeroy, O. The others Mr. Arnold has been about 20 years in collecting.

The most interesting thing about the little books, at least to the curious, uninitiated bystander, is the fact that just inside the cover of each volume is the retail price mark of 37½ cents and the proud owner, when asked their worth, says they "could not be purchased for any price."

Studied in 1840

One of the set, a third reader, had once been the property of the late James Fish, city clerk of Pomeroy, who had studied it in 1840.

Anyone so fortunate as to ever have studied a McGuffey reader never forgets its contents. Mr. Arnold claims, for its simple little lessons, of more than material value, represent the literary gems of centuries as well as including selections from Mr. McGuffey's own contribution to literature. To the present day it is no uncommon thing for Mr. Arnold to stray into Smart & Waddell's Shoe Store and, upon catching sight of Earl Smart, make some unforgettable quotation from McGuffey's to which Mr. Smart replies in kind. "We had been schoolboys together in Pomeroy," Mr. Arnold said.

Leafing through the volumes Mr. Arnold pointed out several favorite quotations which, despite the fact that he knows them by heart, he never has tired of re-reading. Any McGuffey student would prick up his ears to hear recited that anonymous little bit of verse called "The Child's Inquiry," which began:

"How big was Alexander, Pa
That people call him great;
Was he, like old Goliath, tall—
His spear an hundred weight
Was he so large that he could stand
Like some tall steeple high;
And while his feet were on the ground,
His hands could touch the sky?"

Or the verse in which the father plies:

I mean, my child, his actions were,
So great he got a name,
That everybody speaks with praise,
That tells about his fame."

Or perhaps that little old verse from the third reader, still recited today by persons who never knew its derivation.

"'Tis a lesson you should heed,
Try, try again;
If at first you don't succeed,
Try, try again;
Then your courage should appear,
For if you will persevere,
You will conquer, never fear;
Try, try again."

Wants To Form Club

While the readers are his hobby, Mr. Arnold's pet ambition seems to be the forming locally of a "McGuffey Club," such as has already been organized in Columbus and other cities. Towards that end he asks that anyone possessing one or more McGuffey readers confer with him at once.

During his talk with a representative of the Star Mr. Arnold revealed the information that the entire Arnold library—McGuffey readers and all—has been willed to the Masonic Lodge at Pomeroy, with which he has been affiliated for a number of years.

What Mr. Arnold speaks of as the "rest of his library" and which will some day be the property of the Pomeroy Lodge contains fine books, classics, practically all the poets, Longfellow, Riley, Tennyson, Whittier, and many others, Shakespeare, Milton, Hubbard, a large number of valuable sets of books, and much of the standard fiction.

ELECT OFFICERS

Prospect Luther League Members Plan Picnic in July.

Prospect, June 25 — About 30 members and friends of the Luther League of St. Paul's Lutheran church met at the E. J. Keltzman home three miles south of town, Wednesday night. The early part of the evening was devoted to a social hour when a picnic supper was enjoyed. Later a brief program was opened with a song, "Faith of our Fathers," and devotionals were conducted by Rev. Hunsicker. A portion of the constitution of the congregation was the study topic for the evening. The program closed with the singing of a hymn and prayer. During the business session new officers were elected as follows: president, Carl Selter; vice president, Miss Delserina Keltzman; secretary, Miss Dorothy Stiffler; treasurer, Dale Johnson; pianist, Miss Ruth Lauer; reporter, Mrs. Harry A. Lauer. The next meeting is to be a picnic, the third Wednesday of July, in the Community park.

THOUSAND PERSONS AWAIT MRS. WILSON

Woman Stands Out in Convention Throng as Exponent of Harmony

Houston, Tex., June 25—Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson, widow of the World War president, may become the Joan of Arc of the Democratic convention should internal strife threaten success of the party's political warfare.

She stood out today in the convention throngs as an exponent of harmony and a united front in the November offensive.

Having received the greatest popular acclaim of any incoming notable, Mrs. Wilson apparently was in position to wield great power over contending forces.

The spirit of Woodrow Wilson, already in evidence in pre-convention activities, raced through the convention hordes with her arrival.

Displaying reticence when questioned concerning the presidential nomination fight, she did express the hope that the convention will be harmonious.

The popularity of the late president as personified by his widow, was first shown when more than 1,000 people waited over three hours for the arrival of her private car.

AL SMITH FORCES AGREED ON PLANK

Smith Forces Reported Agreed on Tentative Prohibition Plank

publicity will be confined to the resolutions committee and not carried to the floor to stir up a hornet's nest.

Caraway Has Plank

There is little hope, however, that the drys' plank can be adopted and the drys are perfectly willing to fall back on the all-inclusive law enforcement platform.

These leaders pointed out that Governor Smith, in his speech of acceptance, will pledge himself to law enforcement and at the same time reiterate his views for modification of the Volstead law, with the further suggestion that the states should be allowed to determine the prohibition question for themselves.

From the camp of the drys came today a prohibition plank proposed by Senator Caraway of Arkansas, which is understood to have considerable support. It follows:

"The Republican party, in its convention assembled at Kansas City, pledged itself for political purposes only to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment to the constitution.

Pledges Enforcement

"But in good faith the Democratic party pledges itself not only to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment and all laws made pursuant thereto, but likewise the constitution and all other laws of our land."

Still another plank, calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, is being framed by the militant wets. No hope is held for it.

As a result of numerous week-end conferences, no serious trouble is anticipated over the farm relief plank. The corn belt leaders are jubilant over the prospects.

The plank, as proposed by agricultural representatives and approved by a number of influential party leaders, will condemn the Coolidge administration for failure to enact proper remedial legislation, will request an extra session of congress in March to sit until an acceptable farm bill is enacted, and, further, will endorse by inference the equalization fee principle for control of farm surpluses without specifically naming the McNary-Haugen Bill.

All Sympathetic

"We are not asking for the McNary-Haugen bill," said George W. Peek of Moline, Ill., corn belt leader. "The farmers founded the Republican party and yet we were rejected bodily at Kansas City. We now are in the hands of friends who are alive to our situation. I am sure the Democratic plank will be acceptable to us."

Peek has conferred with Senator George of Georgia and Senator Reed of Missouri, both presidential candidates, and with Senator Wagner of New York, close friend of Governor Smith. He pronounced them all sympathetic to the farmers.

Col. Clarence Ousley of Dallas, assistant secretary of agriculture in the Wilson administration, is helping Peek round up friends for the plank.

Short, Snappy Platform

Former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska has a farm program calling for substantial endorsement of the McNary-Haugen principles, but, instead of the equalization fee, proposes a form of sales tax to bear the burden of surplus control.

Word has been passed down the line to make the platform short and snappy. Senator Pittman of Nevada, who is slated to be chairman of the resolutions committee, arrived with a tentative draft of the entire platform in his pocket. It stresses Republican corruption as the Democrats' chief bid for victory in November.

"I have enough material for three platforms," said Pittman, "but we are going to cut it down."

"The Mission of Jesus" Is Subject of Dr. Davis at First Union Service

First Presbyterian Church Filled to Capacity for Opening of Summer Meetings; Trinity Baptist Pastor Compares Christ to Heaven of Man's Life in Sermon

"Religion is God's life in man's heart and Jesus Christ is the heaven of that life," said Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, in his sermon at the first union service of the summer last night at First Presbyterian Church.

The large church auditorium was filled to capacity for the service, which is the first of a series to be held in the various local churches during July and August.

Dr. Davis used as his text the passage, "The kingdom of God is like unto a woman who hid leaven in three measures of meal until the whole became leaven." His subject was "The Mission of Jesus."

Comparing Christ to the heaven of man's life, the inner principle upon which his character is built, Dr. Davis said in part, "Christ acts as the atmosphere of man's life, as his supreme example, his teacher, as life itself.

Establishes Principles

"Will Christ's mission succeed? Will the leaven do its work?" Dr. Davis said. "Christ established the following basic principles for mankind, compassion or benevolence; love, consisting of home life and the sanctity of marriage; justice or government, liberties, the justice of democracy; intelligence, wisdom, literature, and the death of ignorance; honesty, industry and integrity; and sacrifice, consisting of self denial and beautiful service.

"These are the principles Jesus expected to grow in man. Contrary to humankind He was a believer in spiritual forces. We trust our big right arm, believing God to be on the side of power.

"Jesus was confident however and said, 'I am going to turn the world upside down; I am going to wield such an influence as has never been known in history; 2,000 years from now I will allure the imagination and commandeer the allegiance of man as never has been done by any employer or philosopher. To do that I will trust spiritual forces, goodwill, and brotherhood, the appeal to the responsiveness of man's best self;—I will trust them to the limit, though they take me to the Cross.' He went to the cross and so the cross became the world's conquering spiritual force. Time and Jesus Christ will win," Dr. Davis stated.

A beautiful feature of the service was the music furnished by the choir of First Presbyterian Church under direction of Charles Collmer. Their program included an anthem, "The Earth Is the Lord's" by Gaines, a quartet number, "Like As a Father," by Hosmer, sung by Miss Ruth Henderson, Miss Marguerite Brickman, Harwood Taylor and V. C. Smith, a solo by Mr. Taylor, "A Voice in the Wilderness," by Scott, and a solo by Miss Brickman, "Not Ashamed of Christ," by Bois.

The service next Sunday night will be held at Calvary Evangelical Church with Dr. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church as the preacher.

Move May Be Made to Abolish Two-Thirds and Unit Rules

EFFORTS to make prohibition an issue in the 1928 campaign are merely efforts to raise "the bunk issue," Representative Henry T. Rainey, noted Illinois leader, declared today.

Rainey said the Democratic party should conduct the campaign this year on the "corruption issue." He added that farm relief was another pertinent issue.

"Republican corruption is the real big issue this year," said Rainey. "We should not allow anything to detract us from that issue. As for prohibition you can say the Democratic platform will be far from moist. But it really doesn't matter what is said in the platform, because the American people and the Democratic party are three-fourths dry."

Authoritative information reached the Brennan camp today that a movement will be launched to abolish the two-thirds and the unit rules, as soon as the nominations are made. The resolution calling for the repeal of the traditional Democratic convention rules, will emanate from the Ohio delegation.

The Al Smith forces are expected to get behind it generally and are reported to have enough to put it through, once the governor's nomination is over. The Illinois group will support the plan, it was learned, on good authority, but an effort is being made to quiet the sponsors, until after the Smith victory march is completed.

Rumors of the withdrawal of Atlee Pomerene as Ohio's "favorite son" in the presidential race and a Smith vote on the first ballot, despite the Pomerene candidacy, raced through the Ohio delegation today. The apparent desire of Smith managers to avoid a landslide on the first ballot was a deterring influence.

Pomerene headquarters were in full operation, while political strategy was being evolved by his managers.

A MAJORITY of the Indiana delegation is willing to go to Gov. Al Smith the moment Evans Woollen, the Hoosier "favorite son," gives the word, it was admitted privately today by delegation leaders. Eighteen delegates are said to favor Smith, with prospect of others also voting for him.

There will, however, be no abatement of the Woollen campaign and the delegation will carry out its instructions to vote for him on the first ballot, it was said.

The "out" plank of the Illinois delegation was modified today as a result of conferences with leaders of the Smith forces and a "sounding out" of the convention sentiment by George E. Brennan, generalissimo of the delegation.

The proposed new plank will pledge support to the constitution and demand law enforcement, while also reaffirming the right of individuals to petition Congress and seek modification of the constitution.

IT seems that Houston doesn't care so much who is nominated, just so every visitor is sent away with a proper conception of Southern hospitality.

The city very properly centered some of its heaviest hospitality guns on the visiting newspaper correspondents. That's right, too. Newspaper men are so used to their luxuries, what, with the life they lead—talking with the president, getting free tickets to the circus and meeting all the actresses and prize fighters. It wouldn't do to send us away in a frame of mind where we'd give the town a black eye.

PASTOR SPEAKS

Rev. E. Radebaugh Delivers Sermon on Christian Experience

"Life really is a school and death is its graduation," said Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church, in an unusual sermon there yesterday morning. His subject was "Christian Experience" and his text, Psalm 17. "Those of us will one day graduate from this school of experience and reward with the Lord upon the clouds," Reverend Radebaugh said. "We must be able to fix our eyes on the Lord and heavenly things and only the person who has tasted of a real Christian Experience has that ability."

MARION YOUTH GETS DEGREE AT WILLIAMS

Richard Scott Graduates on Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary of Parents

Richard Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Scott, E. Center-st, graduated this morning from Williams College, Boston, as the first Marion boy to receive a degree from that school. His graduation also marks the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of his parents.

Mr. Scott passed his final examinations last week. He received a B. A. degree. He was president of the class of '23 of Harding High school and an honor student. He has the distinction of being the first winner of the gold medal given by the Daughters of the American Revolution for knowledge of American History.

In his junior year at Williams College Mr. Scott was assistant business manager of Williams Musical Club, and as manager in his senior year, conducted the club through a successful tour of the east during Easter vacation.

Mr. Scott is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, founded at Williams College in 1834, and in his junior year was a member of the Inter Fraternity Council. He was a delegate from the fraternity to the national convention at Minneapolis last summer. He also served as business manager and treasurer of the fraternity.

Mr. Scott plans to enter Harvard School of Business Administration this fall.

ARRANGE EXHIBITS FOR LUMBER SHOW

Exhibition to Be Opened to Public Late This Afternoon or Tonight

Exhibitors who are to take part in the Lumber Show being held in the vacant room west of Hotel Marion, East Center st. were busy today, arranging exhibits and it was expected the show would be formally opened to the public late this afternoon or tonight.

Held under the auspices of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, the show consists of panel displays of various kinds of wood and of the treatment in regard to colors.

The show will continue until Friday night and will be in charge of a staff of field men including an architect, an interior decorator, two engineers and a specialist in farm building who will answer questions of prospective builders and of those interested in home decoration. Mrs. Marion Teal, of the Marietta Paint and Color Co. an interior decorator, will instruct the women in floor and woodwork finishing.

In addition to panels of various kinds of woods, the show includes exhibits of miniature houses showing the proper frame construction.

GIVE UP HOPE OF STOPPING SMITH

threatens to sweep everything in front of it, just as at Kansas City, where the Hoover band wagon could hardly provide space for all who wished to clamber on.

Four Still Fight

Only Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, Governor Dan Moody of Texas, Senator Walter F. George of Georgia and Dan Roper of North Carolina were left this morning to carry on the fight against the seeming inevitability of it all. They constituted themselves the four horsemen of the anti-Smith movement, but they admittedly were making little headway. Figure as they would, they could not see more than a maximum of 270 votes that could be counted on to oppose Smith after the first ballot. And that figure is generous by perhaps 70 votes, according to a careful calculation.

The fight against the nomination of the New York governor was in a state of utter collapse this forenoon.

Roper Is Leader

Leadership in the final drive against Smith seemed to rest today with Daniel C. Roper, an old McAdoo lieutenant, who was internal revenue commissioner in the Wilson administration, an ardent dry and a skilled politician. Roper's room in a downtown hotel was the mecca for all the anti-Smith elements. To it at various times during the past 24 hours have gone the Anti-Saloon league people, numerous friends of McAdoo—and even Senator "Jim" Reed of Missouri, who stands next to Smith in delegate strength, and in whom rests whatever real hope the so-called "allies" have of ultimately stopping Smith.

The aim, the purpose and the goal of the dissenters was expressed by Roper himself this morning as follows:

"The elements of the convention which are convinced of the necessity of saving the Democratic party from nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment, and from Tammany control of the federal government, are in agreement upon the course of procedure to be followed in the fight."

No "Deals" Reed

The nature of that "agreement" and the "course of procedure" was not divulged, either by Roper himself or by Senator Reed, who left a conference there at 2 a. m. The Missourian was in a belligerent frame of mind as he climbed into a taxicab with several of his managers.

"I have entered into no coalition, combine or combination," he snapped, in reply to questions. "Missouri is here for only one thing—to get all the votes we can.

"We are entering no 'deals' involving the presidency, possible cabinet posts or anything else."

This last remark referred to the activities of the Smith managers. While "the allies" have been busy cooking up trouble for the New York governor his friends have not been idle. They have been doing some cooking themselves in the last 24 hours, principally with regard to the vice presidency. It was reported they offered second place to Reed and that he refused to consider it. It was also reported the Smith people offered it to Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas ,who was more amenable to it than his senator colleague.

Knows of No Coalition

Reed vehemently denied he knew anything about any coalition.

The Roper statement, he said, spoke for itself. He refused to elaborate upon it, declined to state what was meant by "the elements of the convention" mentioned by Roper, and refused to say how far Missouri will go, if at all, in combining with the bitter enders against Smith for a last ditch fight.

It is one of the ironies of politics that Senator Reed is forced to look for support here to the very elements of the party with which he has so long been at odds. The ardent drys, the Wilson idolizers, the League of Nations Democrats, the old McAdoo crowd all combined to bar him from a seat in the Democratic convention at San Francisco eight years ago. Today in Houston Senator Reed is conferring with them and they are rallying behind him to "stop" Smith.

Comrade Smith's Nomination

In a room adjoining that in which Roper and Reed had their early morning conference sat an official of the Anti-Saloon league. He greeted the Missouri senator as the parley broke up. Only a year ago Senator Reed was anathema to the drys.

Reed, as the champion of the prohibitionists and the ardent drys, is a spectacle that is causing smiles behind many hands in Houston.

"The allies" have only the faintest hopes to "stop Smith." Publicly, they are keeping a bold front, but privately they concede the nomination go by default, that is, abandoning the thus far futile efforts to get a last ditch coalition, and to concentrate, instead, on writing into the platform a bone dry plank so drastic that Smith might refuse to stand on it.

Enforcement Smith Cries

The Smith supporters profess not to be perturbed at all over the prospect of the platform fight on prohibition. Governor Smith, his spokesmen here said, would be entirely willing to stand on a plank similar to that adopted by the Republicans at Kansas City — a party pledge to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment by name. Law enforcement, they say, has always been Governor Smith's cry. His friends would rather have a generic law enforcement plank without naming names, but they are not prepared to fight for it to the point of causing real trouble.

"They can draw as drastic a law enforcement plank as they want," said one Smith's spokesmen. "We don't care. Governor Smith certainly stands for law enforcement, and so does the party. A plank endorsing prohibition or a morally righteous and desirable thing, is however, another matter."

Bloody and Grange

Whichever way the plank is framed in the resolutions committee, it is likely a minority report will be brought out against it, which would ensure an airing of prohibition questions with the whole country constituting a radio audience.

Gov. Dan Moody of Texas and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia have mentioned point on compromise tives of the southern drys who will carry the fight into the convention itself unless the plank agreed upon meets their wishes.

WOMAN INJURED AS MACHINES COLLIDE

Mrs. L. R. Fleck Thrown from Car in Accident at S. Main and Church Sts.

An automobile collision at South Main and Church-sts at 10:30 o'clock this morning resulted in the injury of Mrs. L. R. Fleck, 208 Glad-st, when she was thrown from the car in which she was riding.

Mrs. Fleck was injured when the car in which he was riding and driven by her husband, collided with a car driven by J. P. Roth, 334 Willow-st. The injured woman was taken into the Schaffner Furniture store and later removed to her home.

Roth, who was driving west on Church-st, had the green signal and was half way across the intersection on Main-st when Fleck, who was going east on Church, turned left directly in front of him, it was said. The left front wheel of the Fleck car was broken and the running board crushed while the Ford escaped with a bent radius rod, a broken headlight and a damaged radiator.

Mrs. Fleck who was holding a small child, fell from the machine when the door was thrown open by the force of the collision.

VAN WERT DEDICATES MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

Delegation of Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce Attends Ceremony

Van Wert is the latest city to be added to the list of Ohio corporations which has financed the construction of a municipal airport. With a population of less than 9,000 Van Wert was placed among the leaders in the promotion of aviation yesterday when its new airport was officially dedicated.

Among the 10,000 interested spectators who witnessed the dedication was a delegation from the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce, which for three months has been active in promoting an airport for Marion. Among those who attended the dedication from Marion were Charles H. Conley, one of the organizers of the Junior Chamber, Rho Chaney, Newton Cunningham, Kenneth Clutter, Clarence Boyd and Charles Whymill.

Van Wert, according to those who attended the dedication from here, obtained its field on practically the same plan by which backers of the movement here are promoting the project. A fund sufficient to lease the field was underwritten by Van Wert citizens. The project was then turned over to the city council.

Aerial Parade

The dedication opened with an aerial parade over the city at 12:00 p. m. Three United States army planes and 15 privately owned machines were in the parade. The dedicatory services were in charge of Rev. C. Hunsicker Hair, pastor of the Van Wert Presbyterian church. The field was dedicated to the Richard H. Reed Field in memory of the late Van Wert county man to lose his life in the World War.

One of the interesting events in connection with the dedication was a 10-mile auto race between [illegible]

three-mile courses. The winner ended the race in 14 minutes and eight seconds. Parachute jumps, stunt flying and aerial fireworks were other features of the dedication program.

DR. U. S. DAVIS GIVES FAREWELL SERMON

"Loyalty" Subject of Retiring Trinity Baptist Church Pastor Sunday Morning

Taking as his subject, "Loyalty" and text the words, "These are the marks of my ministry," Dr. U. S. Davis, for three years pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, preached his farewell sermon at an unusually well-attended service there yesterday morning.

Dr. Davis' sermon touched largely on the outlook of the future of Trinity Church and the welfare of that institution which he said he had endeavored to "guard with earnestness, enthusiasm, purpose and pride."

"Four marks of loyalty," he said, "essential in any pastor in relation to his church and in any church in relation to its pastor."

"I am proud of my church, proud of my denomination and proud of the fact that I have been called into such a ministry," Dr. Davis said. In closing he expressed the appreciation of Mrs. Davis and himself for the many kindnesses extended them during their three-years' residence here.

Dr. and Mrs. Davis will leave by motor for Centerville, Mass., next Saturday and will spend the summer on Cape Cod. They expect to locate permanently in the east.

On Wednesday night, members of the Woman's Society of Trinity Church, will give a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Davis, at the church. An entertainment will be furnished by a committee headed by Dale Gorman while a committee working under Mrs. T. A. Fletcher is in charge of the social hour.

burned. The line is owned and operated by the Suburan Power & Light Co.

Mr. Johnson was one of the leading farmers of Hardin County, having taken an active part in the activities of the grange and the county farm bureau. He was also prominent in public life and in 1927 served as district corn borer superintendent over Marion and Morrow Counties.

Veteran of War

He was also a veteran of the Spanish-American War and at the time of his death was commander of the Frank D. Bain camp, U. S. W. V., No. 60. He was member of the Kenton lodge of Masons.

Born in Buck Township, August 19, 1877, Mr. Johnson had lived all his life in Hardin County. There are surviving the widow, six daughters, Anna Johnson, Columbus; Mrs. Irene Bielenchler, Toledo; Frances, Ruth, Nancy and Roberta at home; two sisters, Mrs. Busch Robinson, Columbus; Mrs. Herbert Hastings, Anaheim, Cal., and two brothers, Nelson Johnson of San Angelo, Tex., and Waldo Johnson of Fullerton, Cal.

Funeral services will be completed today upon receipt of word from relatives living out of the city.

Mr. Fittro was a plumber in Mt. Victory and vicinity where he had been engaged in business for years. Besides his widow, a son and daughter-in-law survive. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

29 HURT AS TRAIN GOES INTO DITCH

Three Perhaps Fatally Injured Near Durand, Kas.; Blame Bad Rail

Iola, Kas., June 23—At least 29 persons were injured, three perhaps fatally, when the Rainbow Special, crack Missouri Pacific passenger train, struck a defective rail near Durand, Kas., today, sending two Pullman cars and a chair car over a bridge into a ditch.

Seventeen of the injured were brought to a local hospital, the others being taken into Durand. Officials believed the sudden change to cool, wet weather to be responsible for the defective rail.

REV. RADEBAUGH GIVES SERMON AT OAKLAND

Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor of Calvary Evangelical Church, preached last night at Oakland Evangelical Church in the absence of the pastor, Rev. H. E. Williamson, who is conducting a revival in Baltimore. There were no services last night at Calvary Church on account of the community service at First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Ernest Braden preached yesterday morning at Oakland Church.

Fools wait for things to turn up; wise men go and turn them up.

Daily Proverb—"There is no worse fruit than that which never ripens."

Then there's another reason Governor Ritchie did not choose to run. He realized that he didn't stand a ghost of a chance.

Judge Landis is reported to have discovered that boys like to play baseball. It's little wonder that a man with discernment such as that draws the big salary he does!

"Democrats Bathe Houston with Splashes of Harmony," reads a headline. Take it from us, that's something of a departure from the course of Democratic conventions, as Democratic conventions go.

Seven communists were killed and twenty wounded at Saloniki in a riot started by them to incite violence against the government. At times retribution is a regular Johnny on the spot.

That Chicago's criminal element doesn't lack financial backing was manifested when the headsmen of four of those indicted for terrorism established property qualifications aggregating almost a million dollars. And why not? Its operations have been carried on without any restrictions worth mentioning.

Three have been sent to prison as the result of disclosures in New York's municipal graft scandal, and four more have been indicted. Next to not having municipal graft, the best thing is putting behind the bars as horrible examples those responsible for such graft as exists.

This life of ours, as we have taken occasion to point out frequently, is full of compensations, and in this connection it may be said that, while it may be true that the mosquitos are somewhat more attentive than he would have them, it must be a source of great satisfaction to Mr. Coolidge that the number of pesky politicians hanging around has been reduced to a negligible minimum.

Save the Children.

There are in the United States today 200 happy children—toddlers and older; one of them may be in your home—who will be mourned by grief-stricken parents on July 5 unless their parents take greater interest in and exercise more care over the way they celebrate the Fourth than did the parents of 195 little Americans last July.

And in addition to these living sacrifices to the spirit of the Fourth-of-July season, there will be more than 3,000 other victims of the Fourth suffering varying degrees of agony, some of them condemned to go through life more or less maimed, even blind.

These tragic figures are based on cold statistics. They are the foreknowledge gained by the American Museaum of Safety through its annual surveys of Fourth-of-July accidents and its efforts to hold these tragedies to a minimum.

Yet in spite of everything which may be printed in the nature of a warning, each year sees an increasing danger to the innocent celebrants of the Fourth. Despite rigidly-enforced city ordinances prohibiting the sale of dangerous explosives for the Fourth, the list of deaths and accidents throughout the country is appalling the day after.

In 1925 there were 111 deaths. In 1926 the deaths totalled 161 and the injuries 2,205, and last year 195 deaths and 3,179 injuries were compiled as a direct result of Fourth-of-July fireworks accidents.

Yet there is really little excuse for this condition. Why should there be 200 or more happy children with their parents today who will not be living after next July Fourth? One can not, for the most part, blame these deaths and injuries on the victims because so many of them are so young. The blame attaches partly to parents and guardians, partly to conditions that permit explosive and inflammable material coming into the hands of children without proper supervision, and partly to the long-drawn-out celebration of the Fourth.

Already in June in some instances it has been reported that dealers have been arrested for the sale of fireworks to children. These are usually in the smaller communities. In the larger cities the fire and police restrictions are more stringent.

No doubt the annual toll of fireworks victims would be greatly reduced if the sale of fireworks were limited to the short period from July 1 to July 4. Also there is no doubt that there would be a great reduction in these accidents if parents exercised more care over their children.

In 1927, the statistics show, there were twenty-one pre-Fourth deaths, 168 accurred on the Fourth, and six after the Fourth. Twenty-six of the victims were under five years of age, some of them only two; the cause of the death of these infants being phosphorus poisoning from eating torpedoes and other fireworks.

The greater number of victims were between the ages of six and twenty and the large majority boys.

Identity Certificates for Aliens.

Beginning next Sunday, the first day of the government's new fiscal year, certificates of identity similar to the passports issued by the government will be given to all aliens legally entering this country. They will be somewhat elaborate in form and carry the notations common to passports, and each will bear the photograph of the one to whom it is issued.

There can be no question but what the plan will work to save possible inconvenience and embarrassment to aliens who legally enter the country and greatly simplify the work of the government authorities in rounding up those who have come in illegally, for it will place the burden of establishing their right to be here on the latter class. Any alien suspected of being in the country without authority from the government has only to show his certificate of identity, if apprehended. If apprehended and unable to show a certificate, he will be in a very bad way.

The plan should have been adopted long ago, but for some reason congress was backward about giving it legislative sanction and it was made the target of criticism from many quarters, the burden of objection being that it would establish two classes of aliens here; those with and those without certificates, for the plan does not contemplate the issuing of certificates to those who already have entered the country or those who may enter before July 1 of the present year. It may be said to this objection, that we already have two classes, those whose entrance has been authorized and those who have come into our land in violation of our immigration laws, and it is estimated that there are fully 1,000,000 of the latter, all of whom, if for no other reason than the way of their entrance, are undesirables.

The congressional lukewarmness to the plan is hard to understand, for it has been tried out here in a somewhat less comprehensive way and found to work admirably. It was inaugurated years ago when the Chinese lawfully here were given cards to save them trouble in establishing their identity. Cards have also been supplied at times to Canadians who are compelled to cross the line daily by reason of their employment in cities along our northern boundary to save them inconvenience and delay, and for several months alien visitors have been given cards to facilitate their movements while traveling within our borders. Thus the plan has been tried out and found to be very satisfactory, for the certificates will be nothing more than elaborations of the cards, the data concerning the bearer in each case and the photograph being added.

Foreign lands issue such certificates as those to be issued here, and they have proved their worth alike to those holding them and to the authorities of the land issuing them. By way of illustration; it may be said that if an American traveler wishes to remain in France for more than two months he must, before the expiration of that period, apply to the prefect of the department in which he may be at the time of application for a "carte d'identite," and he must be prepared to take with him his passport, five full-face photographs taken with his hat off, a "certificat de domicile" from the concierge of the flat or the manager of the hotel where he is staying, stamped by the "commissariat de police" of the district. Many Americans may have gone to France and, by moving from city to city, escaped this French requirement, but they have been lucky. Any foreigner suffering an accident in France, or falling into trouble, or becoming engaged in a controversy or in any other way attracting the attention of the police, is mighty unlucky if he does not have a certificate of identity upon his person, unless he can show that he has not been there two months. And somewhat similar regulations exist in some other countries of continental Europe.

If the plan works well abroad, why not here in the United States? It is true, those aliens who have entered or may enter before July 1 will not have certificates, but time will adjust that situation and nullify criticism of it. In time, those aliens not supplied will either have become citizens, been deported or be subjects for deportation. After a time, that classification will very generally have disappeared and the rule will be that all aliens having a right to be here will have government writings to show their right to be here.

A Health Secret.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There is a fixed idea on the part of many doctors that the state of the health depends on the condition of the colon. They are about right as I see it.

You will recall that the lowest and final part of the intestinal tract is called the colon. In constipation this is more or less packed with fecal matter. The popular idea is that all this is waste material, that the body has appropriated what it could use and has rejected because it possesses nothing of value. While much of it is waste, pure and simple, a considerable part of the contents of the colon is made up of dead bacteria and bacterial growth.

Because of intestinal sluggishness and the action of the germs or bacteria upon the fecal matter, fermentation and putrification result. These processes produce poisons which are absorbed by the system and cause all sorts of symptoms. Headaches, loss of sleep, fitful appetite, inflammation of the bowel lining, neuritis, and loss of general efficiency are common effects.

Since it became known that the colon is capable of holding such a putrid mass of germ-laden material, there has been much discussion of what to do about it. To get rid of the reservoir it used to be recommended in the most solemn manner to operate and remove the colon.

Operations are often necessary and, when properly done, promote human happiness and extend the span of life. But, in any case, I view with suspicion the advice to operate, unless the doctor has given consideration first to every possible remedial measure. Certainly, it would be a confession of medical weakness to remove an organ simply because its function might be delayed.

Along comes another authority claiming that old age is due to intestinal germs. He recommended sour milk as a means of relief, pointing to the Bulgarians, who drink much of it, as wonderful examples of youthfulness even in advanced age.

The latest plan to overcome intestinal fermentation is to give cultures of "Bacillus Acidophilus," milk containing this germ. This is really useful.

You know how important it is to keep the weeds out of your garden, so that the "garden truck" can grow. If you plant thickly the seeds of your vegetables and properly cultivate the soil, the good seeds grow and thrive, giving the rank weeds no chance.

The purpose of giving the bacillus acidophilus is to plant in the colon, colonies or gardens of a friendly and useful germ. When once it is thriving, the bad and fermenting germs are crowded out. When the unwelcome germs no longer multiply, fermentation and putrefaction disappear. This is the theory.

Unfortunately, lack of exactness in carrying out the methods of using the Bulgarian bacillus and the bacillus acidophilus, may result in failure of relief. There may be other reasons for failure. Chief of these, perhaps, is the wrong choice of the daily foods and the lack of exercise.

Common sense demands that the natural methods should come first. Then we may add the use of kindly and friendly germs to kill off the unfriendly and harmful intestinal bacteria. Here it is that the bacillus acidophilus may serve mankind.

THE NATURE LEAGUE.

June is a good month for Nature league discussion—the out-of-doors is so inviting, and holds so much for nature lovers to enjoy.

Dr. Wile, a member of the New York league's advisory board, is an eminent psychiatrist. He insists that the beauty of nature is a great aid to mental health and happiness.

Man and nature are vitally interested, says this scientist. It is true. Nature has had wondrous effects upon the development of man's nature through its varied aspects—its quiet, its color and odor, its symphonies, its harmony of form. Its beauty and inspirations have reached the souls not only of poets and artists, but in the practical field where man seeks comfort and happiness, where he can hear the voice and touch the hand of the Great All-Mother.

The dwellers in cities necessarily miss much of nature's revelations, but through the School Nature league and kindred organizations they are discovering and enjoying greater opportunities in this respect with each passing year. The league involves in its mission sustained effort to stay the ruthless destruction of flowers and plants in fields and woods, a destruction indulged with a heartless enthusiasm having no better inspiration than mere desire for swiftly ephemeral decoration or a rage for insane collection without scientific excuse.

It is a province of the School Nature league to cultivate in the minds of children particularly a large respect for natural resources and a deeper appreciation of the beauty and utility of plants and animals. It seeks to lead children understandingly through all the courts of the temple which God has erected here, and upon the altars of which their offerings of appreciation, love and reverence for all things useful and beautiful are good in His sight. He calls from the meadows, the fields, the streams, the woods and the hills, and His voice is the voice of beauty, always.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE REMUS FARCE.

The Ohio supreme court's reasons for freeing George H. Remus, the wife slayer, may be good law. But they are not good common sense, and the Ohio legislature, as well as legislatures elsewhere, should now take steps to prevent a repetition of the Remus farce the next time some murderer tries to dodge the death penalty by means of feigned insanity. If the law is out of line with common sense, it can be brought into line with common sense by proper statutory enactment.

After killing his wife, Remus convinced a jury that he had been insane at the time of the crime, and immediately after his acquittal he convinced a set of alienists that he was sane again.

One lower court—that of Probate Judge William H. Lueders, of Cincinnati—ordered Remus to the asylum, despite the opinions of the experts, on the broad ground that a man who had once killed while insane was a dangerous person to be at large.

An intermediate court, the Ohio court of appeals, overruled Judge Lueders. The state supreme court, by the narrow division of four to three, now upholds the court of appeals.

That ends the matter, so far as Remus is concerned. He is a free man, free of the charge of murder, and free of the charge of insanity. So he can go his way and do as he pleases, just the same as though he never had killed his wife and never had claimed to be crazy. And, unless he at some future time manifests marked symptoms of genuine insanity, there is nothing that society can do about it.

But there is much that society can do to provide at least partially adequate punishment for future George Remuses. Society can protect itself with laws automatically committing to an asylum for life every murderer who escapes the noose, the chair or a life term in prison by successfully pleading insanity. If the Remus farce arouses the public to a realization of the need of such legislation, then the Remus farce will not have been acted in vain.—Minneapolis Journal.

Einstein and Gravitation.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"An article of yours entitled 'In an Elevator' has caused quite a lively discussion among my friends. If Einstein's theory that gravitation is not a force, but an expression of inertia, is correct, why is not everything on the earth thrown off by the effects of its rotation? Is not the speed of the earth's rotation sufficient to overcome the pressure of the air? In line with this was brought up the effect of gravity in a total vacuum. One side maintained that there is no gravitational effect in vacuum, and that a man working inside a total vacuum could leave his tools suspended in space and they would not fall to the floor, the other side insisted that a vacuum has no effect on gravity. Which is right?—S. F. McDuffie, Chicago."

You should be scolded a little for entertaining such a notion as that the pressure of the air tends to keep bodies from flying off the earth. If the speed of rotation were sufficient to throw them off, the air would go with them. In strict fact the pressure of the air tends to lessen the weight of bodies immersed in it—but that is another story, though a very interesting one which I haven't space to tell now.

With regard to Einstein's theory, what he asserts is that the effects of inertia are equivalent to those of gravitation, and cannot be distinguished from them, as shown in the case of the apparent increase or decrease of weight in an elevator. Then he builds up, mathematically, his hypothesis that gravitation is not a "force" but an inherent property of the nondescript called "space-time." But that is something about which nobody needs to trouble his head—unless he wants to.

Now, as to gravitation in a vacuum. Here we come upon an unparalleled peculiarity of the strange force—or whatever it may be called—that causes bodies to fall to the earth and keeps the earth circling around the sun—in short the great master force of the universe. Gravitation acts equally through a vacuum and through water. It is something that can not be screened off. Light can be screened off by the interposition of opaque matter. All kinds of radiant energy can be screened off in the same manner, not even excepting the wonderful "cosmic rays" which seem to pour from starry space. They possess marvellous penetrating power and will go through some yards of solid lead, yet they can be stopped, while gravitation can not be stopped. Suppose you shut yourself up in a dark cellar—the light is cut off by the walls. But gravitation is not cut off by anything. It acts with undiminished power through all obstacles. A body hiding behind the earth, 8,000 miles thick, would feel the attraction of the sun's gravitative force acting through the earth just as if the earth were not there. To be sure, the earth's gravitation would be added to that of the sun, but that would be all the effect derived from putting the earth in between.

Then consider this fact: Open space outside the atmosphere is supposed to be in the condition of a total vacuum, yet the gravitative force of the earth, of the moon of the sun, of the planets and of the stars acts without the slightest interruption across millions and trillions of miles of that stupendous interplanetary and interstellar vacuum. These are all facts of observation or deduced directly from observation, and Einstein has thrown no more real light upon their cause than Newton was able to do, and, as far as general comprehension is concerned, not half so much. Gravitation remains the prime mystery of the physical universe—thanks to Newton we can deal with its operations and predict their effects, though we know nothing whatever of its ultimate nature or cause.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 25 — Diary of a modern Pepys: Out in an early mist and no city so responds to volatile moods of the weather, the passers-by seeming glum. But when the sun came out later there galvanized a human sparkle and warmth. Yet my banker seemed untouched by it.

Came news Meredith Nicholson has become a councilman in Indianapolis which somehow amused me, and so to a luncheon of a hot baked potato and a prune whip and goes pre with Blanche Ring and Charles Winninger. Also saw a gentleman's monocle fall into his soup, which I thought happened only in burlesque halls.

Idled among crowds watching subway diggers and one of the workers had a corn serpent tattoed around his neck. So home and to dinner with Lee Olwell, Joseph Moore, Ray Howard and our wives, and later to Charley Journal's Montmartre to watch the dancers awhile.

A hole in the wall notion store on Second avenue has been drawing a limousine trade that stirred the curiosity of neighborhood merchants. Investigation developed it sold freshly-parched salted corn two days a week.

Parched corn run through a coffee grinder and mixed with sugar was once a delectable desert in the back country. And a grand dish. Nor can I forget the day the minister tried to answer a question with his mouth full of it, thereby giving a perfect imitation of a desert sand storm.

* * *

Another little store on Second avenue offers "Italian Hyacinths." Under another name it is known as garlic.

* * *

There is a novelist partial to garlic. Indeed in high garlic circles he might be called a worshipper. Only recently he complained at a literary club that with success he had noticed a difference and gradual falling-away among those of whom he was fond. Even his best friends, I suppose, won't tell him.

At a theater one night I sat—without a gas mask—in front of a man who had partaken generously of garlic with a few side crates of onions. Somehow I managed to struggle through the evening without losing consciousness—just a few black spots before the eyes. But a man next to him was not so tolerant. As the curtain fell he turned and said, "Thanks for a pleasant evening. I spent it chinning myself on your breath."

Coney Island is supposed to be the haven only of the seeker for cheap and tawdry thrills. And yet among patrons are some of the most sedate and dignified citizens of the city. There are prominent bankers, surgeons and others high in professional life who find enjoyment in Coney's forced frenzy.

They go there several times a season—usually on excursion buses—to lose themselves in the gaudy pyrotechnics, corybantic music and paste-like brilliance. There is a magic hocus-pocus to Coney's fairyland that appeals to the Pan in every man. And there is steeplechase where it never rains.

They do not stand on the side lines to watch. They flip back the years and become boys again—thrilling to water-shoots, the slide-the-bumps, the witching-waves, the haunted tunnels and all the other glittering buncombe. They return to their daily solemnity full of hot dogs, colored lemonade and dog tired. But happy.

It is the same flaccid strain in human dignity that fills freak shows and flea circuses. New York's mid-town. I never visited the Hippodrome's Toyland with its toy city run by midgets that I was not impressed by grim elderly men trying sheepishly not to show the enthusiasm.

The fact is that women have not yet been in possession of their political and citizenship rights quite long enough to take their place side by side with men. Both in court and out of court many of them still think themselves entitled to various kinds of special exemptions. Getting rights should mean more than taking privileges. It should mean assuming also responsibilities.

Now comes Rebecca Lowrie, writer, who says that the new scientific mother who hangs every thought and act of the child full of meaning, and who tries to minister intelligently to the child's every need, has succeeded in making the child more unhappy than he used to be in the old days when there wasn't so much theory in the world. Gadabouts, nuisance women, and old-fashioned mothers all make about the same kind of mothers—good ones. The new kind of mother tries so hard to understand the child that she keeps him irritated. The fact is you can't depend too much on environment.

Don't get the idea that you or any other person is a victim of fate. Remember that man did not inherit the ability to fly, but acquired it. He didn't inherit the ability to talk around the earth, but he acquired it. Dr. E. L. Fisk, well-known physician, says man did not inherit a life term of 100 years, but he may acquire it. There is no known limit to the average lifetime man might acquire by scientific control of his tissues.

It is everlastingly worth while to emphasize the value of keeping in health by preventive measures, rather than depending on cures after the breakdown comes. The idea of keeping in health has evidently taken hold in this country at a gratifying rate. CHARGES HOLD COUNTY RALLY

Union Services Are Held in Number of Nearby Counties; Children's Day Program

Mt. Gilead, June 25—A rally of the M. E. churches of Morrow county was held in the local M. E. church yesterday afternoon and was attended by representatives from eight charges. The speaker of the day was Dr. Carlo Brown, president of the Chattanooga college of Chattanooga, Tenn. It was made possible for Dr. Brown to be at the rally because of the meeting of the M. E. Churches of the N. E. Ohio Conference at which Dr. Brown will speak today. His address was concerned with the importance of carrying forward the practical work of the religious education in connection with the church. He emphasized the importance of the best of talent and spoke of the influence of habit in connection with the accomplishment of the work of the church. Following the address brief reports were requested by Dr. F. C. Anderson, superintendent of the Mansfield district in which Mt. Gilead is located. The reports indicated a very good interest in the church work of Morrow county. Dr. Anderson had charge of the meeting.

Dr. F. C. Anderson also occupied the pulpit in the morning services in the M. E. church.

Last night marked the last separate union services in the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian Churches. Next Sunday night the opening union service of these churches will be held. Dr. Ralph Smith, pastor of the Trinity church will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit in the first union service of the season. These will continue, as in former years, until the fall services when the individual churches will again resume the services.

Yesterday also was the last this summer for the M. E. Sunday School services under the direction of H. H. Fox. The orchestra will disband until September. The last of the M. E. Epworth League services for the summer were held in the M. E. church last night conducted by Rev. J. C. Smith, pastor. The new cabinet will take office in September when the meetings are resumed. Delegates to the Lakeside convention have not yet been named but will be selected some time this summer if adequate finances are raised to send them.

CHURCHES UNITE

First of Series of Union Services To Be Held Sunday

Upper Sandusky, June 25—Pastors of the various churches who yearly unite in their night service during the months of July and August announced from their pulpits yesterday the first of the meetings to be held next Sunday at the Trinity Evangelical Church. Rev. George Good, of Trinity Reformed Church will deliver the sermon and the music will be in charge of a union choir. Young people of the denominations will also unite in their services. Churches uniting include the English Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Evangelical and Reformed.

Especially beautiful was the evening service at the Methodist house of worship when a number of the young people presented a pageant, "The Challenge of Youth." Miss Leota Hickle portrayed the leading character of "Mother of Youth." Others in the cast including Misses Martha Gregg, Adda Irwin, Margaret McNamara and Margaret McCormick as "The Four Graces;" Miss Margaret Miner," leader of youth; Charles Peters, the wise counsellor; Frederick Cassel, the tempter; Floyd Failor, the shield bearer. A number of children appeared in group songs accompanied by Miss Kathryn Fouch. Rev. C. B. Williamson brought "The Message of Flowers" at the morning service. Donald and Robert Snyder sang at junior church services and Mrs. Franklin Main assisted Miss Myrta Moody with the lesson story.

Miss Martha Jane Perrine pleasingly sang, "Out of the Depths," by Scott at the morning service at the Presbyterian Church and Rev. Frederick Cromer preached from the subject, "Christ: His Meekness." Rev. Cromer portrayed portions of Bible history in words and pictures at the night service.

"Exposition of the Lord's Supper," furnished the theme of Rev. W. H. Kibler's message to members of the English Lutheran denomination Sunday morning. Announcement was made that a confessional service will follow the celebrating of holy communion next Sunday morning at this church.

Basing his thoughts on the sixth commandment, Rev. Good spoke at the morning service of the Reformed Church on "The Sacredness of Life," and at night, "the Inspired Word," furnished material for a helpful sermon. Miss Mildred Troup contributed a piano solo at the latter service.

A sermon on, "The Confusion of Tongues" was preached by Rev. N. W. Sager at the Evangelical Church. At night, Rev. Kilber of the Lutheran Church spoke on "The Shepherd's Psalm."

A group of children took part in a Children's Day mission service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church last night. A short address was given by Rev. C. F. Retz, the pastor who also occupied the pulpit for the morning worship hour.

STUDENT SPEAKS

Visiting Speakers Address Marysville Congregations

Marysville, June 25—Marysville pastors used a variety of topics at the Sunday morning and night services in local churches, all of which reported attendances above the average.

Dr. H. E. Armacost, district superintendent, was the speaker at the First Methodist church, at the morning service. At the night service, Louis Otte, first honor student in the graduating class at Ohio Wesleyan University, gave an address on "Looking Backward."

The beginning of the Forty Hours Devotion to the Blessed Sacrament at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church was observed with high mass and the celebration of the holy communion. The devotion will close with a service on Tuesday evening at which a number of visiting priests will officiate.

Rev. Paul Keyser, pastor of the English Lutheran church, spoke on the topic, "What I Owe to My Church," at the morning service. A number of meetings have been scheduled by the church societies for the coming week.

Rev. J. A. V. Traylor, of Magnetic Spring, was the speaker at a special afternoon service held at the Church of Christ, Sunday afternoon. Services were also held on Saturday night, Sunday morning and night.

Wilson Lowe Tells Story of Holy Land at Kenton Meet

Kenton, June 25 — An interesting story of the Holy Land as it is today, was presented Sunday evening in the First Baptist church by Wilson Lowe, who recently returned from a trip abroad. Since his return Mr. Lowe has appeared before many church and rural organizations of Hardin County.

The interesting program last night was arranged by Rev. A. W. Snow, the pastor, as one of a special series to be held throughout the summer.

Most of the Kenton churches joined last evening in union services in St. John's Evangelical church, with Rev. E. V. Belles, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, speaking. "The Cry of the World's Heart," was his subject. The entertaining pastor was Rev. Herbert L. Pfister.

NAME ROOSEVELT TO INTRODUCE AL SMITH

New Yorker Will Have Complete Charge of Floor Fight

Houston, June 25 — Franklin D. Roosevelt today was selected floor leader of Gov. Al Smith's forces at the Democratic national convention which opens here tomorrow.

Announcement that Roosevelt would be in complete command of the fight on the convention floor to make the New York governor the presidential candidate was made by George R. Van Namee, pre-convention manager for Smith.

In addition, Roosevelt will place Governor Smith's name before the convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination. Roosevelt nominated Smith at Madison Square Garden in 1924 and also acted as floor manager.

PERJURY CHARGE IS FACED BY DENTIST

Columbus Man Held Under $5,000 Bond After Making Plea

Columbus, June 25—Arrested on a charge of perjury late Saturday, growing out of evidence given in the case of Carl Seltzer and Frank Mullins, state prohibition agents, indicted on a liquor conspiracy charge following frustration of a highjacking scheme, Dr. J. W. Tall, dentist, was to be given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Joseph Horner here today.

Tall pleaded not guilty when arraigned here yesterday morning and was released under bond of $5,000. Tall, who appeared Friday in Federal Court as defense witness, testified that the two prohibition agents were in his downtown office at the time they were alleged to have made a false arrest of two custodians of a beer truck, enroute from Cleveland, and then to have turned the truckload of beer and liquor over to Mike De Angelo, also indicted on the conspiracy charge.

W. B. Bartels, U. S. district attorney, by whose order Tall was arrested, declared this morning that he had five or more witnesses to testify that Tall's testimony was perjured.

EIGHT PERSONS ARE TREATED FOR RABIES

Zanesville Boy Dies in Hospital After Being Bitten by Dog

Zanesville, June 25—Eight persons are being treated for prevention of rabies here today, following the death here Saturday of Clarence Merriam, nine, of the disease. All were bitten by a dog six weeks ago.

Mrs. Emmett Merriam, who was scratched by her son as he was being taken to the hospital, is being treated today.

Five members of the Merriam family and three members of another family, former owners of the dog, all bitten by the animal are bing treated. The dog had been given to the lad, and bit every one of the family the next day. Two days later it was found dead.

JIM REED TO NAME MISSOURI OFFICERS

Senator Will Appoint Old Friends to Head Delegation

Houston, Tex., June 25—Sen. James A. Reed was tacitly accorded the privilege today of naming the convention officials of the Missouri delegation.

This program was agreed on by leaders of the delegation in order that the Senator might have his personal friends on the important convention committees. It was reported Reed would name his life long friend, Tom Prendergast, of Kansas City, as chairman of the delegation and Bannett Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, as Missouri's member of the platform committee.

Col. Carl L. Ristine, of Lexington, another close friend of the senator, was believed slated for the Missouri appointment to the credentials committee. The whole slate will be named by Reed and ratified by the delegation at a caucus to be held some time this afternoon.

Mrs. Raymond E. Baker Dies on Way to Hospital

SKULL FRACTURED

Husband and Daughter Escape Injuries in Fatal Accident

Galion, June 25—Mrs. Raymond E. Baker, North Columbus-st, was almost instantly killed early yesterday afternoon when the car in which she was riding was struck by a hit-skip motorist on the Harding Highway several miles south of the city.

Mrs. Baker, her husband and daughter Margaret, were on their way to Cardington to spend the day with Mrs. Baker's parents, when the accident occurred. The Baker car, a Ford roadster, struck from the rear by a passing car which failed to stop, upset in the ditch.

Mrs. Baker died on the way to the Good Samaritan Hospital where an examination disclosed a fractured skull and other serious injuries. Neither Baker nor his daughter were injured.

The body was taken to the home of Mrs. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fleming in Cardington and was returned to the home here this afternoon. Rev. W. O. Montague of the First United Brethren Church of which Mrs. Baker has for many years been a member, will conduct the funeral services and continued services will be held at Cardington with burial following there.

Mrs. Baker, the former Miss Mayme Fleming of Cardington, had been a Galion resident for a number of years. Surviving are her husband, a daughter, Margaret, 13, and a son Edgar, 17, and her parents.

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

CONVENTIONS

HAVE you had a first hand account of the G. A. R. encampment at Lancaster? If you haven't you have missed something. And if you think those "boys" that shined up the button in their coat lapel, packed up their handbox and beat it for the annual gubfest and parade, missed anything, you've got another guess coming. I believe if I were the boss of a city I would rather entertain this aggregation than any other,—they get such a kick out of everything and it furnishes conversation fodder for aeons.

Of course, we all appreciate the courtesies extended along with the key to the city, but when we get home the badges, programs and souvenirs are parked with last week's newspapers and are about as soon forgotten. Not so with these chaps. One of the Marion "boys" who took an active part in the festivities avows it was the best ever, and he's seen 'bout all of them. He didn't miss a thing and by the time the convention was drawing to a close he had so many badges pinned on his chest he had to remove some of them before he could start home. It wasn't all business by a mile and a half,—there was entertainment a plenty. Bands, picture shows and even some of the eats were free. And Lancaster didn't do all the entertaining either. The old grew young and the young grew younger. When the band struck up a particularly lively tune one of the "boys", who has just passed his eighty-seventh milestone chose his partner, (she was only 32), and showed 'im a few steps. It surely was some convention.

CHAPEAUX

THE deadly male of the species can now have something more to wax sarcastic about, for dame fashion has issued a new edict for milady's hat material. If you would be the last word in smartdom you must add a velvet chapeau to your wardrobe. Sounds hot in more ways than one. Those who have seen them say they're not so bad. They're made of transparent velvet in soft pastel shades, and look cool at any rate. At least they'll shove on the shelf that old chestnut, "now that summer's here, the women have got out their furs."

Treatment of Customers in Furniture Stores

We do not know much about the policies of other furniture stores, but every once in a while (altogether too frequently for the good of the retail furniture industry) we hear of experiences of customers that are "not so good"—such as substitutions being made; furniture "falling to pieces" within a short time; promises not kept; adjustments not made; etc. The word "stung" is often mentioned.

Here, at Schaffner's, our policy is one that most everyone knows about. Ask some friend or neighbor who has traded here.

Fair-and-square dealing; honest merchandise honestly priced; a real store service; a real credit service; and a real appreciation of your patronage—all of these you can always expect to find here.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

CHAPTER 26

I HAD had no opportunity as yet of passing on Poirot's message to Lawrence. But now, as I strolled out on the lawn, still nursing a grudge against my friend's high-handedness, I saw Lawrence on the croquet lawn, aimlessly knocking a couple of very ancient balls about, with a still more ancient air.

It struck me that it would be a good opportunity to deliver my message. Otherwise, Poirot himself might relieve me of it. It was true that I did not quite gather its purport, but I assured myself that by Lawrence's reply and perhaps a little skillful cross-examination on my part, I should soon perceive its significance. Accordingly I accosted him.

"I've been looking for you," I remarked untruthfully.

"Have you?"

"Yes. The truth is, I've got a message for you—from Poirot."

"Yes?"

"He told me to wait until I was alone with you," I said, dropping my voice significantly, and watching him intently out of the corner of my eye. I have always been rather good at what is called, I believe, creating an atmosphere.

"Well?"

There was no change of expression in the dark melancholic face. Had he any idea of what I was about to say?

"This is the message." I dropped my voice still lower. "'Find the extra coffee-cup, and you can rest in peace.'"

"What on earth does he mean?" Lawrence stared at me in quite unaffected astonishment.

"Don't you know?"

"Not in the least. Do you?"

I was compelled to shake my head.

"What extra coffee-cup?"

"I don't know."

"He'd better ask Dorcas, or one of the maids, if he wants to know about coffee-cups. It's their business, not mine. I don't know anything about the coffee-cups, except that we've got some that are never used, which are a perfect dream! Old Worcester. You're not a connoisseur, are you, Hastings?"

I shook my head.

"You miss a lot. A really perfect bit of old china—it's pure delight to handle it, or even to look at it."

"Well, what am I to tell Poirot?"

"Tell him I don't know what he's talking about. It's double Dutch to me."

I was moving off towards the house again when he suddenly called me back.

"I say, what was the end of that message? Say it over again, will you?"

"'Find the extra coffee-cup, and you can rest in peace.' Are you sure you don't know what it means?" I asked him earnestly.

He shook his head.

"No," he said musingly. "I don't." I—I wish I did."

The boom of the gong sounded from the house, and we went in together. Poirot had been asked by John to remain to lunch, and was already seated at the table.

By tacit consent, all mention of the tragedy was barred. We conversed on the war, and other outside topics. But after the cheese and biscuits had been handed round, and Dorcas had left the room, Poirot suddenly leaned toward Mrs. Cavendish.

"Pardon me, madame, for recalling unpleasant memories, but I have a little idea"—Poirot's "little ideas" were becoming a perfect byword—"and would like to ask one or two questions."

"Of me? Certainly."

"You are too amiable, madame. What I want to ask is this: the door leading into Mrs Inglethorp's room from that of Mademoiselle Cynthia's it was bolted, you say?"

"Certainly it was bolted," replied Mary Cavendish, rather surprised. "I said so at the inquest."

"Bolted?"

"Yes." She looked perplexed.

"I mean," explained Poirot, "you are sure it was bolted, and not merely locked?"

"Oh, I see what you mean. No, I don't know. I said bolted, meaning that it was fastened, and I could not open it, but I believe all the doors were found bolted on the inside."

"Still, as far as you are concerned, the door might equally well have been locked?"

"Oh, yes."

"You yourself did not happen to notice, madame, when you entered Mrs. Inglethorp's room, whether that door was bolted or not?"

"I—I believe it was."

"But you did not see it?"

"No. I—never looked."

"But I did," interrupted Lawrence suddenly. "I happened to notice that it was bolted."

"Ah, that settles it." And Poirot looked crestfallen.

I could not help rejoicing that, for once, one of his "little ideas" had come to naught.

After lunch Poirot begged me to accompany him home. I consented rather stiffly.

"You are annoyed, is it not so?" he asked anxiously, as we walked through the park.

"Not at all," I said coldly.

"That is well. That lifts a great load from my mind."

This was not quite what I had intended. I had hoped that he would have observed the stiffness of my manner. Still, the fervor of his words went towards the appeasing of my just displeasure. I thawed.

"I gave Lawrence your message," I said.

"And what did he say? He was entirely puzzled?"

"Yes, I am quite sure he had no idea of what you meant."

I had expected Poirot to be disappointed; but, to my surprise, he replied that that was as he had thought, and that he was very glad. My pride forbade me to ask any questions.

Poirot switched off on another track.

"Mademoiselle Cynthia was not at lunch today? How was that?"

"She is at the hospital again. She resumed work today."

"Ah, she is an industrious little demoiselle. And pretty too. She is like pictures I have seen in Italy. I would rather like to see that dispensary of hers. Do you think she would show it to me?"

"I am sure she would be delighted. It's an interesting little place."

"Does she go there every day?"

"She has all Wednesdays off, and comes back to lunch on Saturdays. Those are her only times off."

"I will remember. Women are doing great work nowadays, and Mademoiselle Cynthia is clever—oh, yes, she has brains, that little one."

"Yes, I believe she has passed quite a stiff exam."

"Without doubt. After all, it is very responsible work. I suppose they have very strong poisons there?"

"Yes, she showed them to us. They are kept locked up in a little cupboard. I believe they have to be very careful. They always take out the key before leaving the room."

"Indeed. It is near the window, this cupboard?"

"No, right the other side of the room. Why?"

Poirot shrugged his shoulders.

"I wondered. That is all. Will you come in?"

We had reached the cottage.

"No, I think I'll be getting back. I shall go round the long way through the woods."

The woods round Styles were very beautiful. After the walk across the open park, it was pleasant to saunter lazily through the cool glades. There was hardly a breath of wind, the very chirp of the birds was faint and subdued. I strolled on a little way, and finally flung myself down at the foot of a grand old beech-tree. My thoughts of mankind were kindly and charitable. I even forgave Poirot for his absurd secrecy. In fact, I was at peace with the world. Then I yawned.

I thought about the crime, and it struck me as being very unreal and far off.

I yawned again.

Probably, I thought, it really never happened. Of course, it was all a bad dream. The truth of the matter was that it was Lawrence who had murdered Alfred Inglethorp with a croquet mallet. But it was absurd of John to make such a fuss about it, and to go shouting out: "I tell you I won't have it!"

I woke up with a start.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule

By Ruth Britain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday and I got up early and let Jubilee down and milked the dummed brutes as usual, and fed my face and was washed and went to Sunday school, and all the world was looking green and clean from the rain the day before.

I left Jubilee outside of the church and went in and went to set down and there was Younies! I grinned so wide that my teacher told me if it wasn't for my ears the top of my head would be an island. But I was glad to see Younies, and she stayed to church, so I did too. My ant came to church because my mother is always getting the Sunday dinner and can't, and when we got out the super had his car there, and he told my ant he would take her and me home if we wanted him to, so we did. I sot up with him and my ant and Younies sot down in the back seat. When we got in front of our house the super couldn't go close to the side of the gutter because it was still full of water, so he stopped and reached over back of me and opened the back door. As my ant got out she dropped her compact towards the front of the car, and just when she stooped down and was reaching for it the super took his foot off of the clutch or something and the car jumped forward and the open door spanked my ant so hard that she fell on her face with part of her in the gutter.

When she got up she was mad and her hat was over one eye, and she went to say something to the super and he said: "My gracious! I forgot the car was in gear and I took my foot off the clutch, this way, and—" and then the car door slapped my ant in the stummick and she caught one foot behind the other and sot down in the gutter with a splash. And the super gave one look at her face and said: "My goodness!"

The next I knew the car was around the corner with me and Younies still in it; and the super took us to Younies and both of us was almost bustling with laughing, and when he left us out he said he hoped I realized it was an accident, and I said: "Yes sir, thank you." Me and Jubilee hurried home to see what was doing, but my ant was in bed.

Today was Monday, and my ant limped around the house and groaned when there was anything to do. My grandfather said he bet she was black and blue for and aft, whatever that means, but I'll bet she is too. She says the super has got to apologize or she'll sue him. I hope I am home when he comes to apologize.

Love's Awakening

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By AIMEE GARRISON

Madge's Father Determines to Settle Down.

My father put his arm around me and drew me close as I voiced my almost hysterical plea that he take no more of the dangerous mysterious journeys which his work in the diplomatic branch of the secret service had made imperative for him during the years since our reunion.

"Did they affect you so much, my darling?" he asked contritely.

"Oh!" I shuddered against him. "You never will know how much. I never have told you because I didn't want to hinder you. I felt as if I were a soldier's daughter, and indeed I was. But surely — generals retire, don't they?"

He laughed indulgently.

"Yes, and so did I, once, as you remember."

"But they held you in reserve," I rejoined, "and it seems to me that you've been busier than you were ever since that time."

"That is true," he admitted. "But there has been a sort of tacit agreement that when this last job was completed, I could shake off responsibility except for consultation in an emergency. And thanks to Underwood, I believe I shall be able to take a real rest.

"I am still bewildered by the discovery that he has been 'K seven'," he said, "the man who has kept our whole department agog with baffled curiosity all these years. And yet, now that his secret is known, I realize that always when I have received messages from that mysterious figure, I have been haunted by a sense of something familiar about the bizarre phraseology in which he couched the notes. Well! he certainly has earned immunity for the rest of his life and has expiated every whit of that old crime. This last exploit of his has helped to cut out a cancer very near the heart of our body politic and that of other countries.

"You see, dearest," he went on, "while we always have with us a certain type of fanatical revolter against things as they are, we have been troubled since the war by a new type of conspirator, the criminal of high mentality, with contempt for authority and lust for power who will stop at nothing. Men of this type, some of them in unbelievably high places, formed a band whose outlawry was as fantastic, but far more vicious than Robin Hood's. The assassination of rulers and the wiping out of cities upon a certain day if huge sums of money were not forthcoming—these were their plans. The rounding of them up sent me on that last voyage of mine and Allen Drake and I came back marked men. I can tell you now, my dear, that if it had not been for Harry Underwood's help, and your ability to decipher that code message, you might have been minus—what is the modern phrase?—'a perfectly good father'."

"Don't!" I adjured him, catching his hand.

"No, I won't jest about it," he said, "but you must believe me when I tell you there is no more cause for you to be concerned. Those devils were implacable, but they have been effectually dealt with, and if I do not die until they cause my taking off, I shall live to rival Methuselah's claim. And unless there's something as grave as a war, I shan't leave the farm except on pleasure trips any more. Shall I tell you a secret?"

He was flushing like a schoolboy and I felt a sudden fantastic fear. Surely he was not thinking of——

"Oh! of course," I forced myself to say.

"I'm writing a book," he said, and I breathed again, "the history of some of our cases, for a very limited circulation, the members of the service of other countries. They have been pleased to say that our methods were worth copying, and I have been asked to do the work. That is what I meant when I told your mother-in-law I must be treated as a guest."

"But I'm afraid it will be simply impossible for you to work under the conditions you'll have here," I said, with sudden alarm. "Oh! I musn't throw my burden on you this way. I must stay out here this Winter."

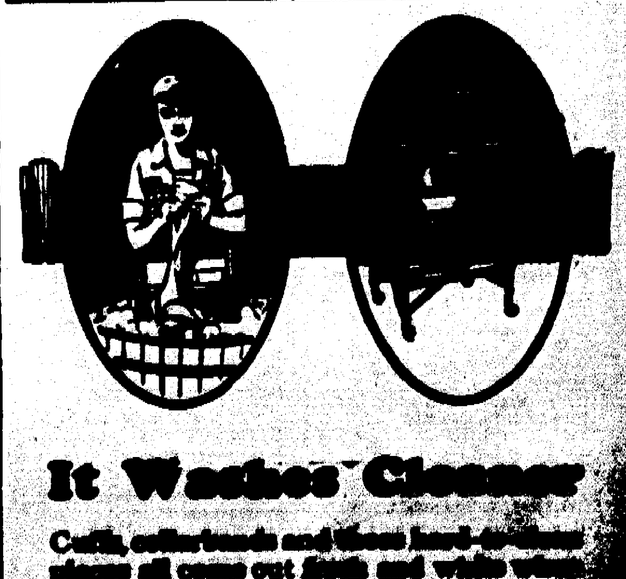
Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of most importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and cranapy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove, at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.



It Washes Cleaner

Cuffs, collar bands and those hard-to-reach places all come out fresh and white when you wash it.
